Airport sprawl delayed; Willow Run study set

By MITCH KEHETIAN
Editor

Plans to transform Willow Run Airport into a major air cargo center — a plan under fire by officials in Van Buren Township — will not come about for at least 15 months — if at all.

Charles Van Dusen, project director at the Metro Airport in Romulus, said: "In about 10 days we will complete a master plan study grant to determine what role Willow Run will play in the future. "And that study will take from a year to 15 months before Wayne County decides what route to take at Willow Run."

CITIZENS AND officials in Van Buren Township, and surrounding communities, claim the plan to expand Willow Run into a national air cargo center will "destroy Van Buren's future."

Officials in Van Buren claim the proposed Willow Run expansion would "wipe out large sections of homes, schools and potential developments" if the county goes ahead with the expansion plan.

But based on Van Dusen remarks, which came at a Romulus Metro Chamber of Commerce Luncheon meeting last week, the expansion threat is at least 15 months away — a study that could possibly cancel out the feared expansion project at Willow Run.

will become a second O'Hare Airport, and we all know how the development of O'Hare has helped the growth of suburban Chicago."

RICHARD ENRIGHT, chamber president, shared

Van Dusen's remarks about the comparison of Metro to Chicago O'Hare. "The future of Romulus is linked to this massive airport facility. We must use it to the fullest extent to assure the development of Romulus into a positive progressive community."

At the present, Metro ranks as the nation's 10th busiest airport, and 15th internationally.

The Romulus chamber, now in its third year as an organization, has a membership of 78. "We're still growing — and we intend to continue to grow with the city of Romulus," Enright promised.

PILES OF DAMAGED LUMBER — The A. Dugan and Son Lumber Co., New Boston was severely damaged by fire May 7. The fire is still under investigation by state fire marshal and Michigan State Police. Fire crews from Huron and Brownstown townships and Romulus were called to assist in extinguishing the blaze which officials believe to have started in a washroom. Ralph Dugan said at least $100,000 worth of damages incurred to the warehouse and buildings. The company is operating from a portable office — Romulus Roman photo.

Junior high gets two school units

By KAY DeBORD

Two schools under one roof — the story at Romulus Junior High in the future, after recent action of the Romulus Board of Education.

Acting on the recommendation of the Implementation Committee, which has studied the program for some time at the request of board and administration, the two separate entities will be known as the Romulus Middle School (sixth and seventh grades) and Romulus Junior High School (eighth and ninth grades).

Separate budgets, administrators and staff also were approved by the board. CLASS HOURS approved for the middle school will be approximately 7 a.m. to noon, and for the junior high, 12:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Plans are for six periods for each school, five 45 minute periods and one 55 minute class.

Students will be allowed to eat sandwiches and milk at their desks during the longer class period.

The board also approved two block times for sixth and seventh grades. English and social studies will be combined as will math and science.

The last period is planned as "unique," with three different 60-day classes with students attending on a rotating basis. Art and careers will be offered, along with library for sixth grade and art and careers for seventh grade with a third class not determined.

EIGHTH GRADE students will also have two longer class blocks. English will be combined with social studies and math with science. On a 60-day rotating bases, the students will take physical education, home economics, art, Michigan history and speech.

Curriculum for ninth grade students is to be finalized in the near future, according to school officials.

Storage problems also were taken under advisement by the board and committee. The board authorized the "clearing" of all lockers at the end of each school day and a complete set of text-books for each classroom and a duplicate set for each student for home use. The plan is to do away with the need to carry books to class and home for assignments.

Yet to be resolved is the busing schedule for the schools. The committee has recommended two separate bus schedules for the two schools.

Developer sues city on rezoning

Hannan Road Associates, a development firm whose request for a rezoning was turned down by the Romulus City Council recently, has filed suit against the city.

The firm requested a rezoning of land near Hannan Road and Ecorse Road from a single family home designation to a mobile home designation after the council turned down an earlier request to rezone the land to a multiple designation.

The suit is in preliminary stages, with the Hannan Road Associates and the city exchanging information on the matter.

No trial date has been set.

METRO AIRPORT, Romulus' largest single taxpayer, handled more than seven million passengers last year. "And by the year 1990, Metro will service 35 million passengers," Van Dusen said.

The airport officer also assured Romulus officials and chamber members that any future cargo expansion plans at Willow Run would not take away taxable cargo traffic from Metro.

At the same time Van Dusen admitted that "in the past we may have not communicated as we should have with Romulus officials, but that's changed. As we grow, Romulus can grow and we've got to work together for the benefit of all interested parties."

AS AN EXAMPLE of Metro's value to Western Wayne County, Van Dusen said: "Because of the airport, 7,000 jobs were created, and that includes personnel at the airport and businesses related to the airport."

He also stressed that Metro Airport annually is responsible for the pumping of more than a half billion dollars into the Western Wayne County economy.

"Actually, Metro not only helps Romulus, but goes beyond the city limits and indirectly boosts jobs and business and land values in other area communities — including Garden City, Wayne, Westland, rapidly growing Canton Township and others," Van Dusen asserted.

Van Dusen said Metro's new international terminal will be completed by next March, and added: "In due time Metro

Report on city books due soon

Romulus city officials are awaiting a formal report from auditors sent to check the city's books by the state of Michigan.

According to Mayor Hyle Carmichael, the auditors checked the city's books "for about an hour" one day three weeks ago.

"I asked them who requested the audit," said the mayor, "and they told me they came at someone's request, but they didn't give the citizen's name."

Carmichael said he suspects

"We talked with them," Carmichael said, "and they cited some problems in our books, but they were bookkeeping matters and procedural questions that they talked about."

"WE HAVE changed some procedures to comply with the recommendations, but I don't think anybody can point a finger at anyone in this administration as a result of this audit."

According to Carmichael, the auditors checked the city's books "for about an hour" one day three weeks ago.

"I asked them who requested the audit," said the mayor, "and they told me they came at someone's request, but they didn't give the citizen's name."

Carmichael said he suspects that the auditors were responding to a request made sometime during 1972, by a citizen of the community, but did not cite any incident which could inspire a citizen to ask for an audit.

"It's a citizen's prerogative to request the audit, so I'm not upset," he said. "We're waiting for the final report, though, to see how we came out."

IT IS REGULAR procedure for state auditors to check a city's books at the request of a citizen of that community, and for the formal documentation of that audit to be reported to the attorney general.

Carmichael had no idea when the final report on the community's audit will be available.

Ed board candidates are named

The names of three candidates for the two vacancies coming up on the Romulus Board of Education were announced at the Monday night meeting of the board.

Incumbent Carl W. Morris, 13599 Huron River Drive, Romulus, is seeking another four-year term. Also seeking a board seat will be LaVerne McGee, 35504 N. Alexander, Romulus, and Gloria M. Chandler, 9261 Ozga Rd., Romulus. They also will seek a four-year term.

Incumbent Board President Jason P. Lovette failed to file a petition for another term in office.

News editor is named

A member of The Associated Newspapers editorial staff with more than five years of experience in all phases of news reporting and editing, has been named news editor for the Belleville Enterprise, The Romulus Roman and The Daily Eagle.

Lucy Wiesend, a member of the Enterprise-Roman staff since last September; started her journalism career five years ago with the Ypsilanti Press.

Mrs. Wiesend, 26, received a bachelor of arts degree in 1969 from Wayne State University — majoring in journalism.

She is a 1964 graduate of Fordson High School in Dearborn and earned an associate degree in 1967 at Henry Ford Community College.

IN ADDITION to her news writing and reporting background, Mrs. Wiesend has served as editor of entertainment and home improvement sections at the Enterprise-Roman, and for its Panax Corporation affiliated daily publication — The Daily Eagle which serves the cities of Wayne, Westland, Garden City and Inkster and the township of Canton.

Mrs. Wiesend is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Peterson of Dearborn. She and her husband, Richard J. Wiesend, live in Taylor.

In making the announcement, Robert G. Knoske, general manager, said: "The appointment of Mrs. Wiesend to serve as news editor of our daily and weekly newspaper publications is another step to improve and strengthen our role as the voice of hometown news communication in Western Wayne County."

Mrs. Wiesend will assist Editor Mitch Kehetian in the functioning of all news and editorial operations of the daily and weekly publication of the three Panax Corporation-owned newspapers.

Other members of the local editorial and photographic staff include Tom Mooradian, sports editor; Lothar Konietzko, chief photographer; Lee Smith, Suburban Living Editor, and editorial staff members Henry Cantin, James Carravallah, Carol Thomas, Kay DeBord, Russ Brown and Dale Gowing.

On the state and national scene, readers of this newspaper learn the latest in state government from Lansing Bureau Chief Don Hoenshell and Wes Thorp; while veteran correspondent Tom Ochiltree covers the turbulent Washington beat.

Carmichael group would break Raspberry power

By JIM CARRAVALLAH

The campaign committee put together to return Romulus Mayor Hyle Carmichael to office this November will attempt to bring four councilmen to the city's legislative body.

It has been learned exclusively by the Romulus Roman, that Carmichael's re-election committee will endorse the candidacies of Beverly McAnally, active in the Romulus school system, and Don Treder, a member of the city's planning commission along with incumbent Councilmen Fred Junior Block and William Oakley.

The move will be designed to destroy the power of a clique of councilmen apparently headed by Council President Jimmie C. Raspberry.

CARMICHAEL'S committee makes it no secret that Raspberry's voting block on the council, which includes Councilmen Ellis Pennington and Brooker Edwards, has worked to undo gains made by the Carmichael administration during the first two years of Romulus' cityhood.

Carmichael's committee had been formed in an effort to return the present administrative team of Clerk Leonard Folmar and Treasurer Albert Glinkski to office. It was assumed at that time that the committee would endorse the candidacy of Oakley and Block, both staunch supporters of the administration.

Although none of the prospective candidates have announced their candidacy for office officially, both Mrs. McAnally and Treder have taken out petitions for a spot on the primary ballot.

Both are expected to file their petitions before the 4 p.m., June 19 deadline.

Mrs. McAnally has long been active in school affairs, and recently was recognized as the Romulus Jaycettes' "Women of the "Year." She was cited for her work in the school district and the community at the time of receiving the Jaycette award in April.

TREDER HAS worked on the city's planning commission—a board recognized for its position of power in city government.

Carmichael remained mum on the matter of council endorsements, when confronted with the information Monday afternoon.

"I think any releases will have to come from the committee," he said. "I can't announce anything independently."

His statement was the first public acknowledgement that any sort of committee had been formed to discuss the election.

According to sources close to the committee, which is headed by local real estate promoter, Mickey Reel, only four candidates will be endorsed in the Aug. 7 primary, but that the committee will pick up additional candidates for its blessing after the field of council hopefuls has been narrowed. Fourteen candidates are to be picked in the Aug. 7 primary election.

To date, nearly 20 residents have taken out petitions for a spot on the Aug. 7 ballot. Only two incumbent councilmen, Ellis Pennington and Brooker Edwards, have taken out petitions in their behalf.

ALL PRESENT councilmen face re-election this August and November.

Three other people have taken out petitions since the report in last week's Romulus Roman named those who have selected petitions.

The three new candidates are Bob Plank, who ran an unsuccessful campaign to unseat Wayne County Commissioner John N. Sabe (D-24th District) last November; Marilyn Radford, a local citizen and Gerald Budd, secretary of the Romulus School Board.

Only one area resident, John Gilligan, has taken out petitions for the mayor's job in the city.

It is expected that the Romulus Democrat Club will be selecting a candidate to oppose Carmichael, but according to sources close to the club, the organization has been involved in internal bickering, and may have a difficult time selecting a candidate.

Those named most frequently for the Democratic blessing are former State Senator Terry Trout, and former County Commissioner Edmund Bizek Sr. Both are former township supervisors.

Bizek has taken out petitions for office, but has not indicated what office he was seeking, or if he was taking the petitions out in behalf of someone else.

Bizek's son, Edmund Bizek Jr., is an incumbent councilman.

It's time to fix up battered mail boxes

The U.S. Postal Service has designated the week of May 21-26 as Mailbox Improvement Week this year.

Postmaster Ray J. O'Neil of Belleville announced that a week is set aside every year as a time to encourage rural and mounted city delivery postal customers to improve the appearance of their mail boxes and to replace old and damaged boxes with new boxes designed to protect the mail from the weather. Mail boxes should be neat in appearance, conveniently located, and safe to use.

On rural routes, mail boxes of approved traditional or contemporary design are required. Postal customers still using the old-style top-opening boxes may continue to use them at their present location provided they are kept in good condition and afford adequate protection for the mail. Unserviceable boxes, or those which expose mail to the weather, should be replaced. Boxes and supports should be kept painted and free of rust.

ON CITY DELIVERY motorized routes, the mail boxes may be either the approved traditional rural-type, the approved suburban box of contemporary design, or any mail receptacle which is conveniently located at the curb, safe for the carrier to use, and which afford protection for mail against the weather.

The use of house numbers and street and road names has been authorized in this area for rural routes. House numbers must be shown on the side of the box visible to the carrier as he approaches, or on the door where boxes are grouped side by side. On both city mounted and rural routes, the street or road name as well as the house number must be shown if the box is not located directly in front of the owner's residence. The placing of the owner's name on the box is optional.

The height of boxes depends upon the type of vehicle used by the carrier. On rural routes, mail box posts should be of such height that the box can be served easily from the right hand window of a passenger car.

A GOOD HEIGHT for rural box supports is approximately 42 inches from the ground to the bottom of the box. On city mounted routes, the supports should be higher, since these boxes are served by right hand driver Postal Service mail trucks. About 48 inches from the ground to the bottom of the mail box is a good height.

Mail boxes must be located on the right side of the road in the direction of travel of the carriers. It is both dangerous for the carrier to drive on the left side of the road and a violation of Michigan State law.

Moonlighters to be counted

How many American workers are holding more than one job? How many are working overtime and what is their overtime pay? What are workers' usual hours on their jobs?

Robert G. McWilliam, director of the bureau of the census data collection center in Detroit, has announced that information on these subjects will be collected this week from a sample of households in this area.

The questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor. Results of this monthly survey provide a continuing measure of economic conditions in the country. The March survey showed that employment rose sharply to 83.9 million, 700,000 more than in February.

The overall jobless rate was 5.0 per cent, not materially different from 5.1 per cent rate of March a year ago.

Facts supplied by individuals participating in the survey are kept strictly confidential by law, and results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Air pollution seminar topic

Michigan's new laws, rules and regulations in water and air pollution control will be the subject of a one-day seminar to be sponsored by the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce scheduled Friday at the Civic Center, Lansing.

Nearly 500 business and industrial leaders are expected to attend.

The morning agenda includes speakers from the Michigan Water Resources Commission who will discuss recent laws and regulations regarding shoreland and stream zoning, soil erosion and sedimentation, amendments to the surveillance fee program and new relationships between state and federal water pollution control agencies.

The afternoon session will feature new programs related to recent laws, rules and regulations in air pollution control.

Audience participation will also follow these presentations made by the staff of the Air Pollution Control Commission.

Mobile home park kits available

Kits of materials and tapes on campground construction and mobile home park development are available at cost from the Michigan Mobile Home and Recreational Vehicle Institute (MMHRVI).

The kits were prepared and used for two highly successful seminars held this spring in cooperation with Eastern Michigan University.

The RV Seminar kit contains a catalog of camping publications, campground rules and regulations including water and sewer requirements under state law, two books on campground management and development, and a number of other publications on promotion, profits, and market studies.

The Mobile Home Seminar kit contains a book on how to build and operate a mobile home park, a site planning kit with site plans, zoning suggestions, sewage and water regulations, market studies and other data.

Each kit sells for $20. Cassette tape of speeches presented at each seminar are priced at $30.

For further information, contact the MMHRVI office, 19045 Farmington Road, Livonia, Mich., 48152. Telephone (313) 477-3434.

From points as far away as Phoenix, Ariz.; Denver, Col. and many parts of Florida came alumni and their husbands or wives Saturday night to attend the second five-year reunion of the Romulus High classes of the forties.

This year, by special invitation, many alumni from the classes of the 1930s were also included, making the gathering at the Romulus Progressive Club Hall on Ozga some 400 strong. At the invitation of Master of Ceremonies Joseph Fisher former Supt. of Schools Glen W. Herzog of Lakeview, Mich., who attended with his wife, Melba, a former teacher here, gave the invocation.

Many other teachers attended, including Raymond Wallace from Northern Michigan, who was presented with a special plaque of recognition from the classes. Dinner and dancing were enjoyed as everyone happily renewed old acquaintances.

There were prizes for the man coming from the greatest distance (Dick Bradley, Colorado); woman from the greatest distance (Erma Sundburg Crippen Arizona); person with the most grandchildren (Jerome Chapp of New Boston, 13), and many others.

Mrs. Lillian McCafferty of Nixa, Mo. (near Springfield) and her daughter, Mrs. Bunny Hedgepeth of the same city, drove here to spend a week visiting their mother and grandmother. Mrs. Edward Russell of Shook Road and other local relatives — also, to attend Saturday night's reunion.

Miss Cheryl Purdie of Belleville was honored at a miscellaneous bridal shower Sunday afternoon, May 6, in Flat Rock. The party was given by Mrs. Olga Hay of Allen Park and Mrs. Kathleen Bender of Flat Rock, aunts of the bridegroom-to-be, James Wagner of Huron River Drive South, Romulus. The young couple exchange marriage vows in June.

For three days this week (May 17, 18, 19) local folks will have the opportunity to purchase a wide variety of clothing and other household items at the spring rummage sale being sponsored by the United Methodist Women at the Community United Methodist Church on Olive Street (across from the grade school). Sale hours are: Thursday, noon to 4 p.m.; Friday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon. There will also be a bake sale Thursday.

There will be a meeting of the Ladies Missionary Group at the Calvary Baptist Church on Ozga Road Thursday, beginning at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Floyd Wilson from Augers, Mich. has been spending a few days with Mrs. Charles Hively, Sr. on Wayne Road.

The Annual Linen Benefit Party given by the Romulus Service Mothers Club will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 21, at the Romulus Progressive Club Hall on Ozga Road. Bingo games, refreshments and door prizes will be included in the evening's entertainment. The public may attend.

Funeral services were held here the past week for a long time Romulus resident, Mrs. Clarence Baker, 86, former resident of Bibbins Street who operated a grocery store for many years on Main Street in Romulus with her late husband. Mrs. Baker had resided the past few years in Florida near her only son, Mr. J.B. Baker.

The Misses Sophie and Cindi Blaharski, teachers, respectively at Crestwood and Taylor schools, enjoyed their eight day Easter vacation sightseeing in Spain and Africa. The two saw a bull fight in Malaga, enjoyed the beautiful flamenco dancers; drove a rented car through the Sierra Nevada Mountains to Granada and toured the Alhambra. They also ferried across the Mediterranean Sea to Tangiers and Totuan, Africa, where they bargained in the casbah and rode camels near the Hercules Cave. The young women are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Roman Blaharski of Huron River Drive South.

Mr. and Mrs. G.W. Herzog of Lakeview, Mich. were overnight guests Saturday of the Fred W. Hay family on Huron River Drive South. The Herzogs spent a couple of days with their youngest daughter, Glenna, and family in Columbus, Ohio, after attending funeral services in Romulus for Mrs. Clarence Baker on Thursday. They returned to Romulus for the classes of the forties reunion banquet Saturday night.

It's a small world! While shopping in the picturesque shops of Mijah in the mountains of southern Spain Mr. Pearl Morris and the Fred Hay family came upon neighbors, the Blaharski sisters, who were also shopping there! Neither party knew the other was there for the Easter holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smitt of Ferndale Street and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wonn of Grover Street spent eight days recently vacationing in Acapulco on the Pacific Ocean. They flew there and spent an enjoyable time on the beach and sightseeing. The foursome visited native villages and traveled to the city of Taxco which is ringed by mountains.

Women's softball planned

Women's Liberationists in Romulus, who think they can play ball with the best of men, have a chance to prove their point.

Thanks to two strictly men's organizations—the Romulus Jaycees and the Romulus Recreation Advisory Council—women in Romulus can show "their stuff" on the softball diamond.

The Jaycees recommended the program to the council, which eagerly picked up the ball—so to speak.

"With all the talk of the little leagues allowing girls to play ball, and the continuing emphasis on women's liberation around, we thought it would be nice to have a women's softball league," explained Jaycee Gary Johnson, who along with Jaycee Lou Worden is coordinating the effort with the Recreation Council.

MD Month proclaimed by mayor

Romulus Mayor Hyle Carmichael has declared May 15 to June 15 "Muscular Dystrophy Month."

In ceremonies in his office, Carmichael urged the citizens of the community get involved in the Muscular Dystrophy Association's "March Against Time" in an effort to find the cause to the nearly always fatal disease through research.

He presented the proclamation to Elvera Fischer, 1973 Volunteer Chairman for the Romulus March Against Time.

Area residents will be canvassing the city for donations to help finance research into the disease.

Romulus residents are award finalists

Three Jaycees and one Jaycette from Romulus were finalists in the annual Jaycee awards competition at the annual Jaycee convention last week.

Lee Silvey was a finalist in the outstanding chapter president competition at the convention while John Van Stipdonk made the finals in the outstanding chapter spark and Phil McNett made the finals in the outstanding chapter spoke.

"We're looking now for all the teams to play each other and then to have tournaments," Johnson said. "With the teams we have now, we'll only be able to play three games."

Individuals wanting to show their skill with the bat and glove and whole teams can sign up for the league now by calling either Mayor Hyle Carmichael at 941-0666 or the Romulus Recreation Department at 941-3337.

All entries must be in by May 31.

Romulus teen named as finalist

A Romulus Teen will be one teen of the finalists in the "Miss Teen" pageant taking place in Ypsilanti in July.

Theresa Roth, 16, was selected in the state contest pageant at the Sheraton Cadillac Hotel recently.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew B. Roth, 9243 Essex St., Romulus, Theresa is a junior at Romulus Senior High School.

She was selected a finalist in the state pageant based on talent, poise, personality and beauty.

Miss Roth is a jazz dancer, studying modern dance at Sheryl's School of Dance in Detroit. She has blonde hair and blue eyes and wishes to be a dental lab technician and therapist.

Representatives of the Romulus Education Association attended a political action workshop last week with the Garden City Education Association.

Speakers for the workshop were State Rep. William R. Keith (D-33rd District) and Richard Adams and Charles

More than 300 students and teachers from the Romulus High School classes of the 1930s and the 1940s attended a joint class reunion last weekend in the Romulus Progressive Hall.

Four teachers from the era, Mrs. Harold Cass of Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Herzog of Lakeview, Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Baker of Florida and Raymond Wallace of Decker, attended the reunion, which featured 307 of the school's former students.

Wallace, a teacher of 40 years in the school system, was recognized by the Classes of the 1930s and 1940s Alumni Committee with a plaque for his service.

MORE THAN $362 in prizes were awarded to those who attended the event.

Four grand prizes were awarded.

Merle Kelly, class of 1946; received an afghan blanket; Mrs. Evelyn (Vaughn) Miller, class of 1945, received a bottle of whiskey; Joe Dolencic, class of 1943, received a decanter.

Mrs. Rose Marie (Vaillancourt) Herbert, class of 1944, received a special prize for having the most children since graduation. Mrs. Herbert has 10 children.

Mrs. Parlie (Parsons) Dupree, class of 1948, received the prize for having the youngest child - a six-month-old baby.

JEROME CHAPP, class of 1934, received a prize for having the most grandchildren - 13 grandchildren.

Dick Bradley, class of 1949, received a prize for traveling the greatest distance to the reunion. Bradley lives in Colorado.

Former students coming from out of state include Keith Van Aernum, Wisconsin; Mrs. Lillian (Russell) McCafferty, Missouri; Glen Newman, New York; Dick Bradley and his wife, Marian (Mayhew) Bradley, Colorado; Irma (Sundberg) Crippen, Arizona; Mr. and Mrs. Bob (Goodlet) Kelly, Florida; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stapp, Florida; Mr. and Mrs. J.B. (Spangler) Baker, Florida; and Mrs. Joyce (Miank) Lierly, Nebraska.

Music for the evening was provided by the Bob Cats and Betty Brown catered the event.

JOE FISHER was the master of ceremonies. According to Fisher, the classes have been having reunions every five years since 1968, and plan to hold another reunion in 1978.

Jaycee parade planned in city

The annual Romulus Jaycee parade will be held June 6. The parade will start at 5 p.m. at the Kennedy Park in the city and will proceed to the Romulus High School.

The Jaycees are seeking groups or individuals wishing to take part in the parade. Anyone wishing to participate is asked to contact either Mike Pawelak at 941-0049 or Lou Warden at 699-7512.

The parade will coincide with the annual Jaycees Festival scheduled for June 1 through 10 on Wayne Road across from the Romulus High School.

Included in this year's carnival will be a special "Kids Day" on June 9. All children attending the carnival will be able to use the rides at reduced prices.

Also scheduled for the day is a bike raffle, with a girl's and a boy's bike being raffled by the Jaycees.

Rezoning hearing set on June 5

The Romulus City Council has set a June 5 public hearing for discussion of a proposed zoning change of land near Beverly and Merriman Roads from a single family home designation to a high rise multiple designation.

The hearing, set for 7 p.m., will be for resident discussion on the proposed rezoning.

Corral Enterprises, a Garden City-based development firm, is requesting the rezoning.

School employees set picnic for Sunday

Maintenance workers, bus drivers, cafeteria workers and custodians of Local 64, Romulus Community Schools, will assemble at 10 a.m. Sunday at Huron - Clinton Metropolitan Park for a family picnic.

To carry out the theme, "An Old-fashioned Picnic," members are asked to wear old-style clothes for the outing which will include sport events, games and prizes as well as picnicking.

Miss Vivian Wade is chairman of the picnic planning committee. Members are Marilyn Masters, Elvira Cline, Annie Kilbourn, Lottie Green, Carolyn Schultz and Sharon Wilson.

Agreement reached

The Romulus Board of Education has reached a table agreement with Local 64, representing maintenance, custodial, cafeteria, workers, secretaries, bus driver and other non-certified employees of the district.

The agreement yet to be ratified, was announced by James M. Garfield, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel.

Main topics of negotiation were salaries and fringe benefits for the second year of the three-year contract.

Goings on Meetings

The Huron Township Board will meet at 8 p.m. next Wednesday at the township hall, 37290 Huron River Dr., New Boston.

The Romulus City Council will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the municipal building, 11111 S. Wayne Rd.

The Romulus Public Housing Commission will meet at 6:30 p.m. tonight at the housing commission office, 5907 Chamberlain St., Romulus.

Announce awards

Cub Scout Pack 735 at Cory School in Romulus accepted a new Webelo scout into their numbers April 17 and presented Kevin Whittenburg with a scarf and color pin.

In Den 1, Richard Burgess received two silver arrows. Kevin Whittenburg received one gold arrow and seven silver arrows. Jeff Tyer was awarded an assistant denner rope and Jaris Banks received a bear book in Den 2.

David Glazier won his denner rope and Shannon Rhodes received his assistant denner rope at the April 17 meeting in Den 3.

In Den 4, Robbie Totten received his denner rope and Steven Schorling was awarded his assistant denner rope. A bear book was awarded to John Zaleski in Den 5.

In the Webelo category, John Hanlon, Jim Jerome and Steven Medina won their citizenship badges, and Steven Medina also received his geologist badge.

Pack 735 also announced that the pack plans to participate in the Save Our American Resources (SOAR) program.

Jaycees participate in 'red ball' program

The Romulus Jaycees are participating in "Operation Redball" in the effort to protect the children of the community.

The Jaycees are distributing "red ball" stickers to children through the elementary schools to assist firefighters in rescue operations during fires.

The stickers are to be placed on the windows of children's rooms in homes, to show the fire fighters where they should devote their attention during fires.

Stickers should be placed on the windows of children, invalids or of those people who would require assistance in exiting a burning building.

Buried in glacial lake

Mysterious artifact might be Noah's Ark

By MITCH KEHETIAN Editor

"...The Ark came to rest on the mountains of Ararat"-- Genesis 8:4

And ever since this passage first appeared in the Scriptures, man has dreamed and attempted to uncover the mysterious artifact buried under tons of ice near the peak of towering Mt. Ararat.

And what about this mysterious artifact. Is it true that some people believe the artifact might be the missing link to the Biblical story of Noah's Ark?

If so, why hasn't man conquered the formidable mountain, literally parked on the tense Soviet Armenian-Turkish border. And what happened to the expedition that went to eastern Turkey two summers ago in search of Noah's Ark?

THESE PERPLEXING questions repeatedly come my way--as a member of that ill-fated expedition of two summers ago.

Our mission was to "Uncover, or attempt to determine whether the mysterious artifact on Ararat was hand-tooled wood of great antiquity."

But the great mission failed to materialize--Turkish authorities banned an advance team representing Search Foundation, Inc. Turkish officials in Istanbul questioned the membership of two Armenians with the Search expedition--including this writer.

ONE MEMBER of derailed expedition, Fernand Navarra, a Frenchman, scaled Ararat the previous summer-- returning with several pieces of hand-hewn wood from under a glacier at the 14,000 foot level of the Biblical mountain.

Our expedition was designed to expand on Navarra's "mysterious" hand-hewn wood.

Navarra's presence with the 1970 planned expedition also miffed Turkish authorities. In several authored articles about his discovery, Navarra was harsh against the Turks and their method of settling the Armenian Question in eastern Turkey--once the homeland of the Armenians.

In 1920, a Soviet-Turkish pact divided Armenia. The then Ottoman Turkish government seized Ararat as its war prize, while the remaining portion of Armenia was absorbed within the Soviet Union.

NAVARRA CLAIMS the wood he retrieved from Ararat was cut from the end of a 150-foot beam, which he judged was part of an estimated 50 tons of observable construction embedded beneath a permanent, stationary frozen glacial lake.

Exhaustive tests conducted on the "hand-tooled" wood by scientists of the renowned Bordeaux University in France and the Madrid University of Forestry judged the wood to be about 5,000 years.

While tests conducted by the University of California, and from carbon tests at the University of Pennsylvania place the age of the wood between 1,300 and 1,700 years.

Recognizing the importance of the wood found by Navarra,

Robert C. Taylor, director of the Arctic Institute of North America, commented: "We need objective appraisal to strengthen the findings. I can't explain how wood that size and age could get to that height...whatever is there is going to be of great archeological interest."

BIBLICAL CHRONOLOGY places the Flood of Forty Days about 1,656 years after man was created, or 2,528 B.C.

Gilbert H. Grosvenor, late editor of National Geographic Magazine, once said: "If the Ark of Noah is ever discovered it will be the greatest archeological find in human history...and the greatest event since the Resurrection of Christ."

The Jewish historian, Flavius Josephus (100 A.D.) wrote that Noah's Ark was stranded on a mountain in Armenia (in ancient Hebrew, Ararat means Armenia) and that the remains of the ship could still be seen in his day.

Pan American pilots on the air-route from Ankara, Turkey to Teheran, Iran confess to having seen "a dark object lying under an ice lake on Ararat" during the August thaw.

AND IN CHAPTER IV of the "Antiquities of the Jews," it states: "There is above the country of Minyas in Armenia a great mountain called Baris, where, as the story goes, many refugees found safety at the time of the flood..."

Though towering Ararat, reaching out to a height of nearly 17,000 feet, rests on the Turkish side of the tense border with Armenia--it is viewed daily by more than 800,000 Armenians living in Yerevan, the capital of present-day Soviet Armenia.

For the past five years I've journeyed to the Ararat region, and each year I return more convinced that the mysterious artifact seen by Navarra might be the Ark.

From time to time we hear of some new Ararat expeditions, and if one were allowed by Turkish authorities--it would merely consist of picture-taking. Scientific expeditions are banned.

WHAT DO THE Turks fear? Sources in Yerevan, Armenia, claim: "The Turks would allow the tapping of the ice-lake if they knew for certain the mysterious artifact is not linked to the ancient Urartu civilization--the beginning of the modern Armenia race."

The Urartu Armenians vanished as a political unit in about 800 B.C. when the declining Ararat Valley civilization fell before invading Armeno-Prygian tribes from eastern Europe.

And so long as the Armenian Question remains unanswered, Turkey will ban scientific expeditions. The Turkish newspaper "Hurriet" said: "Strong forces in Yerevan, Syria and especially Lebanon are today working to wrest the eastern perimeter of Turkey from the Turks, in favor of the Armenians."

AT A RECENT talk before the Wayne Rotary, I was asked: "Is it God's time to uncover the Ark?"

The answer lies with the present land owner of Mt. Ararat.

A great responsibility

Integrity of Press is being watched

American journalism is enjoying one of its finest hours with the exposure of the rotteness of institutional politics in the Watergate scandal. Courageous newspapermen have won the honors of their profession and praise from a grateful nation.

But the dangers of excesses are all too apparent in the pursuit of the story. Unfounded rumors, unchecked facts and second- and third-hand whispers are being paraded through the same arena in which journalism achieved one of its greatest marks of integrity in generations.

The first disclosures, calling the nation to action and its system of justice to right the wrongs of evil men, silenced the critics of the press and restored the honor it deserves. Now there is a risk that anti-press sentiment will itself rise again in credibility.

Senator William Proxmire, D-Wis., made the point early. The Washington Post agreed that "now is not the time to be reckless," that editors and reporters should insist upon the same documentation now that they required in the original disclosures.

The presidency and the republican form of government must be preserved, whatever the fate of those by whose actions they could be destroyed. At this time the press has no greater responsibility than to its own basic tenets.

We urge the press to restrain the human urge to outdo competitive media and each other with speculation, with the circulation of rumors and gossip, and with baseless sensations as destructive of government are at work to find the facts upon which the system of justice will act.

When the facts are found, the press again will owe it to the public and itself to make them known and the people will decide what must be done under their laws to elevate government and politics again to positions of trust.

The press must remain true to its heritage, to how to the line and let the chips fall where they may.

But the first command of an honorable profession is to determine where the line is, where the facts lie.

Panax Editorial

This photograph of towering ice-capped Mt. Ararat, the legendary landing site for Noah's Ark was taken two summers ago by Editor Mitch Kehetian. The small peak to the left is referred to as Little Ararat. The Biblical mountain is located on the tense, heavily fortified Soviet Armenian-Turkish border.

Voice of the people

Questions delay for crossing signals

To the Editor:

My husband and I bought a mobile home and moved to Suburban Estates, Lohr Road, Belleville in June of 1971. We were shocked to find the railroad crossing at Martz Road without adequate warning signals.

We inquired around and found that petitions requesting warning signals had been signed and sent to the proper authorities but nothing had been accomplished although many accidents had occurred at the crossing.

In August of 1971 I wrote to Gov. William Milliken, outlining to the governor the hazard at this crossing. He answered my letter and assured me that action would be taken, warning signals would be installed and I would be kept informed on all future developments pertaining to this matter.

From August, 1971 through early January, 1972, I received correspondence from the Michigan Department of Commerce and the Michigan Public Service Commission. On January 28, 1972, after a full-hearing on the matter, the Michigan Public Service Commission ordered the Norfolk and Western Railroad to start installation of gates and lights within six months and to regrade the roads leading to the railroad tracks. To date nothing has been started.

On Tuesday, May 8, I discussed this matter with Brian Arrowsmith, representing our area on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners. Later that same day, I sent, by certified mail, my complete file on this matter (including correspondence from C. E. Magoon, director of the railroad division of the Michigan Department of Commerce) to Commissioner Arrowsmith.

I hope action will be taken before more tragedies happen such as the one that occurred the past weekend in which the lives of a mother and two small children were claimed by an accident.

Dignity and autonomy for Bantu nations

By JOHN P. McGOFF, President
Panax Corporation

(Part Five of 10-part Series)

CAPE TOWN, SA — Native South African citizens of the Bantu-speaking strain have been given self-government and dignity under a complex structure first regarded as a bureaucrat's flimsy dream.

But even the opposition United and Progressive parties now concede the reality of opportunity transcends political fancy.

There has developed a structure of non-European governments under the South African Bantu Authorities Act of 1951 and the promotion of Bantu Self-Government Act of 1959.

IT IS STILL in the development stage, straining against the tether of the past, but progress over the years has answered the skeptics and the Bantu nations are achieving autonomy.

These are significant signposts leading toward full nationhood for each group, coupled with meaningful economic cooperation within the republic's present political boundaries.

The best historical example is the self-governing black homeland of Transkei, led by Paramount Chief Mantanzima and his Transkeian National Independence Party which is presently the majority party. Eight months ago I met with him in New York, and my more recent visit to Africa took me to Botswana and Zululand.

TRANSKEI WAS the first to claim self-rule among the Bantu. Its 16,500 square miles is about the size of Denmark and forms the largest single Bantu area in the republic.

It is the traditional home of the bulk of the Xhosa-speaking people who number about 3.5 million.

Transkei had a running start at democracy through its well-developed Bunga, the place of meeting or discussion, and the ancient tribal government is easily being converted.

The economy of the region is principally agriculture and animal husbandry but public transportation companies, trucking, farm implement dealers, fertilizer firms and others have come into being with the aid of the Bantu Development Corporation.

The Transkeian government, granted autonomy in 1963, consists of an executive or cabinet which has a chief minister and five other ministers whose number may be increased to nine.

THESE ARE ELECTED by ballot in the legislative assembly which consists of paramount chiefs of the Transkei, the 60 regional authority chiefs and 45 members elected by registered voters.

Thus, there is a fusion of two systems, one traditional to the Bantu -- the rule of the chiefs -- and a modern democratic election of members of parliament.

It is a necessary first step toward political maturity, the gradual deposit of authority and responsibility. And the Bantu, particularly the Transkei, have achieved much progress since 1963.

Africa lives next door

The growing middle class recognizes the vital nature of help from the South African government. For example, agriculture and lumbering have made great strides and irrigation has opened new lands.

FORESTS HAVE been planted and industries established and roads have been built. White civil servants tend to withdraw as trained and qualified Bantu assume control, a condition of cooperation and mutual respect.

Black leaders stated to me that they desire separate and parallel development as a means to preserve national dignity and purpose, controlling their own destiny.

SKILLED TRADES are taught Bantu (Black homeland people) to help them increase personal and national economies. Thousands are trained each year throughout South Africa as lab technicians, electricians, teachers, plumbers, nurses, and in dozens of other skilled professional jobs.

The black leaders concur with the whites that a strict one-man-one-vote concept is not valid for Africa. Both want security and economic progress.

Dr. Jan S. Marais, whose stature in the economy as chairman of the Trust Bank Centre in Cape Town is a major factor in the upgrading of the Bantu nations, said their income is growing in two ways:

The per capita cash income of the Bantu is $148 a year, but "a fairly large portion of the remuneration" is paid in kind with free meals and often free clothing, subsidized medical plans, housing, and transportation.

AND THE NONWHITE share of the Gross National Income (GNI) is steadily improving. In 1960, the percentage was 23 per cent. It went to 24 per cent in 1970 and by 2000 will be 30 per cent.

Despite the oversupply of unskilled workers, such as the Bantu, and the restriction on immigration to skilled craftsmen, native Africans are being steadily and carefully melded into the industrial phase of the economy.

"However, irrespective of their precise stake in national wealth, there is a clear tendency towards improvement and this trend is accelerating all the time," says Dr. Marais.

Thus, a form of parliamentary democracy and forward-looking economic policies are building a better life for the peoples of South Africa, of all races and economic status.

How they voted

WASHINGTON — Following are votes by members of the Michigan delegation on major roll calls in Congress for the week ending May 4:

On two occasions during the week the Senate failed to shut off a filibuster against the postcard registration bill. Both times the vote to cut off debate fell short of the required two-thirds. The first vote was 56 to 31 and the second 60 to 34.

Hart voted both times to close debate. Griffin was not present on the first vote and voted against cloture on the second.

By a vote of 76 to 14 the Senate passed and sent to the House a three-year authorization bill to raise federal support for the arts and humanities from the present $80 million a year to $400 million a year by fiscal 1976.

Hart voted for the bill. Griffin was not present.

By a vote of 267 to 115 the House agreed to a conference report and thereby cleared for the President legislation to extend and amend the 1970 economic stabilization act.

Voting for: Broomfield, Cederberg, Chamberlain, Diggs, Dingell, Esch, Gerald Ford, Griffiths, Harvey, Nedzi and Vander Jagt.

Voting against: Brown, William Ford (D-15th District) Hutchinson, Riegle and Ruppe.

Not voting: Conyers, Huber and O'Hara.

Army offers $2,500 enlistment bonuses

Beginning May 1, the United States Army is offering two new enlistment options for service in the Regular Army which pay cash bonuses of $2,500 for a four-year enlistment. Titled the U.S. Army Cash Bonus Enlistment Option and the U.S. Army Training and Cash Enlistment Option, both are available to young men who qualify.

Prospective enlistees must meet normal mental, physical and moral standards for enlistment and must also be high school graduates. Those still in school may apply before they graduate if school officials certify they will graduate at the end of the school term.

Under the Cash Bonus Enlistment Option, young men without previous service may volunteer for the artillery, armor or infantry. The offer also applies to former servicemen, if they have served less than three years and have been out of service for more than three months.

The bonus is payable upon successful completion of basic combat training, advanced individual training and the award of a military occupational specialty which certifies the soldier is qualified to perform in his military job. The bonus is subject to normal deductions.

The combat arms option may be combined with a number of other combat arms opportunities including airborne training and duty, Special Forces, Ranger, U.S. Army Europe, U.S. Army Korea, U.S. Army Alaska, U.S. Army Hawaii, or the 193rd Infantry brigade in the Canal Zone.

The enlistee may also select duty with one of the infantry or armored divisions stationed in the United States such as the 1st, 4th or 9th Infantry or the 2nd Armored Division. Also available is the 3rd Infantry Division, now in Germany.

Requirements for enlistment under the Training and Cash Enlistment Option are identical to those for the other program. This option, however, seeks to meet Army needs for a variety of technical skills including maps, in communications, missiles, radar and electronics, and nuclear weapons.

Under the Training and Cash Enlistment Option, enlistees complete basic combat training before going on to the advanced individual training leading to qualification in the field they have chosen.

Most of the jobs require extensive training and provide the soldier with a solid background in electronics, communications or maintenance to use in his civilian career. The cash bonus is paid the enlistee when he is awarded the military occupational specialty certifying him qualified in his field.

For further information on these two $2,500 cash bonus enlistment plans, interested persons may contact Sgt. Ron Ames at 722-3388 or 699-2664 or visit his office at the Wayne Post Office or at 405 Main St., Belleville.

Elwell Rd. carnival a success

The recent carnival held at the Elwell Road Elementary School in Belleville was reported to be a "huge success."

The success of the carnival is attributed to the many hours of work by the Parent-Teacher Organization (PTO), mothers and the leadership of co-chairmen Jennie Prohaska and Sharon Justin.

A special thanks is also extended to all the local merchants who donated gifts for the door prize drawings. Gifts were donated by Hal's Market, Traskos Lumber Co., Kelly Cleaners, Hayward's Store, Ben Franklin Store, Lorrain's Beauty Nook, Hairpin Hair Styles, Memering's, Five Point Station and Moss Brothers.

Other merchants who made donations are Don & Carol's Party Store, Ballard's Florist, Dancer's Department Store, Martin and Son, Sietz Market, Sumpter Ace Hardware, Marvin's Market, Irv's T.V. Repair, J & A Restaurant, Box Jewelry, Inc., He and She Shop, Hamilton Hardware Store, Cy Kendall Flowers, Continental Barbers, Bella Hi and Hoot's Kentucky Fried Chicken.

Speaker set

Dr. Gary Navarre will be the featured speaker at the meeting of PACT (Parent Action for Child Training) to be held at 8 p.m., May 21, at the Southwest Regional Training Center, 31627 Palmer Rd., Westland.

The camp is open to both boys and girls from Van Buren Township.

SANDBAGGING IT — Two Romulus Jaycees were among the hundreds helping to sandbag the Gibraltar shoreline against the onslaught of Lake Erie recently. The Jaycees volunteered their time and muscle power in an effort to save the crumbling shoreline and the homes abutting it from the elements.

Summer camp for kids planned for Van Buren

The Van Buren Township Recreation Department has announced that summer activities will include its first summer camp for children 10 to 12 years of age.

"Summer camp is usually one of the most exciting times in the life of a child and we are happy that we can make such available for the children of our community," said William A. Loyd, director.

The site is Camp DeSales, ideally situated in the heart of Michigan's Irish Hills.

Youngsters will enjoy wholesome, invigorating activities such as swimming in Vineyard Lake and evening campfire.

Sports, handicrafts and many other activities are under the supervision of adults from the Van Buren Public School System.

Camp activities will include: swimming, fishing, baseball, softball, badminton, basketball, soccer, touch football, tetherball, hiking, nature lore, riflery, archery, handicrafts galore and possibly horseback riding.

The camp is open to both boys and girls from Van Buren Township.

"Since this is a pilot program we are limiting the number of campers to only 56 youngsters," Loyd said.

Campers will be housed in individual cabins that house 11 campers and a minimum of two adult counselors. "We will be accepting applications for 22 boys and 22 girls, immediately," Loyd said.

The camping will be for three nights and two action-packed days. Camping will begin on Wednesday evening, June 20, and terminate Saturday, June 23.

For further information persons may contact Loyd at 699-2001.

Arrowsmith named to board of health

Wayne County Commissioner Brian G. Arrowsmith, representing the 27th District, has been elected to the Wayne County Board of Health.

Arrowsmith was elected to the board of health at last Thursday's session of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners. He will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Frank T. Balaga, M.D.

The five member board of health serves as a policy making body for the Wayne County Health Department.

The board determines and establishes public health policies and programs, enforces local, state and federal health laws, rules and regulations, establishes and enforces county health regulations and reviews and evaluates all departmental programs.

The 27th District embraces the communities of Belleville, Canton Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Sumpter Township, Van Buren Township and parts of Westland and Northville Township.

The eight million small businesses in America will get deserved recognition during the week of May 13-19, when the nation observes the Ninth Annual Small Business Week proclaimed by President Nixon.

District Director of the Small Business Administration Robert F. Phillips, Detroit, said highlight of the observance will be naming of the National Small Businessman of the Year in Washington, plus naming of the Small Businessman of the Year for Michigan in Lansing today.

Romulus sets GED testing

Romulus Continuing Education will offer a second session of the GED test to metropolitan residents on May 29, 30 and 31. The test is given at Romulus Senior High, 9650 S. Wayne Rd. and runs from 6-10 o'clock each evening. There is a $10 examination fee. Interested persons may register by calling 941-1600, Ext. 37.

William Smith, community school director, announced that the second session was needed to accommodate students who have been preparing with the TV show "Operation Second Chance."

Successful completion of the test leads to a high school equivalency certificate from the State of Michigan, and also may be used as additional credit in the Romulus adult high school program.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

BY HAROLD REDISKE, DIRECTOR

At Cooper Union, New York, Lincoln said, "Let us have faith that right makes might..." It can not be proved but it certainly is likely his thought originated from the Bible. For example...

The Old Testament cites many cases of cruelties, stonings, scourges, slaying by the sword and all for nought. And in the New Testament consider the cases of the twelve disciples. Only John died of old age. Peter was crucified, head downward. Andrew and Simon were crucified too. James, the young brother of the Savior was beaten to death with a club. Bartholomew was flayed alive. James, the elder son of Zebedee was beheaded. Thomas the doubter, was killed with a lance. Philip was hanged. Matthew was slain by sword. Thaddeus was shot to death with arrows.

In martyrdom they suffered painful deaths. Through the ages, such deaths have proved that the God of right is ever more powerful than naked might, atomic bombs, armies or weapons. The preservation and development of the church through the ages proves that devilish forces can not conquer the God of right and justice...

Sixth graders entertain Huron Valley Garden Club

The Huron Valley Garden Club met Monday, May 7, at Edgemont School with 14 members present. Mrs. Lynne Hamilton introduced Jon Hale, a sixth grade teacher, who presented his class in a game of "Make your own world—the one you'd like to live in." An illustrated board represented the world. The class was divided into 11 teams and each given a role to play.

Flooring tips

Resilient flooring that comes in sheet or roll form can be laid down directly over an old floor covering, but it is important to look for protruding nail heads, high edges on board or old tiles, and any other irregularities that might interfere with a smooth installation.

Wide planks in floors are more susceptible to swelling and shrinkage than standard strips.

The following series of proposals could be voted upon: airport, shopping center, hydroelectric dam and reservoir, auto speedway, wildlife preserve, amusement park, marina, industrial park, super highway, or highrise apartments.

Each team was given a chance to vote yes or no and explain the reason for the team's decision. If the majority of the class voted to add a feature, a model was placed on the board.

THE GAME BOARD represented a complete, self-contained world. The farmlands provide all the food for people. If it was decided to eliminate the farmlands, the food couldn't come from outside the world. Air over the board provided all the air people need living in the area.

If decision was to eliminate all the forests and other vegetation, they couldn't get air from another source. The water on the board provides all the water that was needed and no additional fresh water could be brought in from the 'outside' world. No liquid, solid or gaseous waste could be taken off the board. The class discussion was very interesting.

A business meeting was later conducted by Mrs. Melvin Budd with all reports given and accepted. A horticulture report was given by Mrs. La Vern Sayre.

'Soil of Stewardship Week' was discussed along with soil erosion and plant food. When planting petunias, pinch back the flower so as to provide a stronger root system and bushy plants.

A work day for clean up of the park area will be held Thursday, May 17, at 3:30 for all members who can participate.

The June meeting will be a Lenawee Vocational Center Tour at Adrian. Members are to meet at the park at 9 a.m. and the tour will begin at 10:30. Lunch will be at the Country House.

Sierotas entertain for daughter, Karen

KAREN SIEROTA, second daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ronald Sierota of Quirk Road, spent her First Communion Day with some 38 friends and relatives who were invited in for dinner at one thirty.

Champagne punch preceded dinner which was served at round tables appointed with yellow and white cloths and fresh daisy centerpieces in matching color.

Karen's grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. John Kadley and Mrs. Stephanie Sierota, came from Dearborn along with her God-mother, Judy Sierota, her husband, Matt, and their three children. Other Dearbornites included Barb Hand and her two sons, the Rev. Father Edward Sirokey, Miss Edwina Sirokey, and the Joe Maguire family.

Still others from out-of-town were the Doctors Jack and Pat Hill and their two children from Albion; the Edward Hudge family from Ann Arbor; and Rosemary Wilkewicz and her two youngsters from Woodhaven. And, of course, Karen's two sisters, Val and Terri, had a hand in the preparations and festivities.

Carol's classmates share 14th birthday

CAROL SMITH enjoyed sharing her 14th birthday last Tuesday with seven close friends from North Junior High School. Following last hour, the girls were picked up by Carol's mom, Mrs. Bert Smith, and taken home for a spaghetti dinner followed by cake and ice cream.

Taking part in the party, which lasted 'til nine, were Janice French, Kim Eichold, Chris Wiley, Joni Lindblad, Sue Krebs, Kim Terzieff, and Karen Crow.

HOME AFTER a three weeks absence, Mrs. Kenneth Myers is convalescing at her home on Lake Villa Drive following major surgery. Mrs. Meyers was a patient at St. Mary's Hospital in Rochester, Minnesota where surgeons from Mayo Clinic performed the operation.

RECENT VISITORS to Florida's Silver Springs were newlyweds, Gary and Sandy Setlock of 50333 Willis Road, Belleville. VISITING RECENTLY with Mrs. Elmer Johnson at the Hope Nursing Center in Wayne were two friends from Romulus, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Eastridge.

Pre-nuptial parties honor bride-elect

TRUDY EVANSKI, who will become the bride of Paul Roddick Saturday, was the recipient of scads of gifts at two recent miscellaneous showers. The first, given by Mrs. Robert Morse of Westland, included bridal-theme games, the gift display and luncheon. Spring floral arrangements and wedding decorations added a festive touch to the rooms.

The guest list included several of the future bridegroom's relatives from Derby, England with two of them, Mrs. Donald Nolson and Mrs. Austin Young, receiving door prizes.

Others attending from abroad were the Misses Jane and Lynn Young as well as out-of-staters, Sandy Betsinger of Las Vegas, Nevada and Connie Snyder of Cincinnati, Ohio. Still others were Mrs. Jessie Clelland with Christine and Linda of Farmington; Mrs. Bruce Paterson of Livonia; Mrs. Doris Cope, Mrs. Edla Morse and Claudia Scripture, all of Detroit; Mrs. Norman Adams of Southgate; Mrs. Anita Kelley of Trenton; Mrs. Donald Frazier from Dearborn Heights; Mrs. Paul McCroskey of Berlin, Michigan; and Mrs. George Roddick of Westland.

The bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Robert Evanski, and her sisters, Dorie, Debbie and Patty, were also invited.

THE LAST in a series of recent showers was held in Ypsilanti at the apartment of Trudy's brother, Dan Evanski. Hostess for the party, Sandy Betsinger of Las Vegas, combined the shower with a surprise birthday celebration for the honoree (her natal date being the following day.)

Bonnie Krzeminski of New Boston provided a special cake and corsage for the bride-elect who unwrapped her gifts after the group had enjoyed a traditional shower game. Mrs. Leona Betsinger of Belleville took home the house prize — a decorated bride doll cake.

The prospective bridegroom put in an appearance and gave his future bride a hand with the ribbons and wrappings as the following guests watched: Rita Krzeminski, Trudy's God-mother from New Boston; Nadine Katanski of Ypsilanti; Sharon Richendollar, Betty Jarrett, Mrs. Bruce Collins, and Mrs. Evanski with Dorie, Debbie and Patty.

Trudy and Paul will exchange nuptial vows at St. Anthony's Catholic Church May 19.

MRS. WENDELL P. ALFORD

Alford-Runyon wed

Grace Baptist Church chosen for wedding

A five-day honeymoon in Indiana and Ohio followed the April 21 marriage of Mary Margaret Runyon and Wendell Patrick Alford, both of Belleville. The young couple exchanged wedding bands and nuptial vows before the Rev. Bill Gram at Grace Baptist Church of Belleville.

The six o'clock ceremony united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Runyon of 50197 Expressway, Belleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Alford of 8701-180 Belleville Road, Belleville.

Mrs. Ruth Thum was at the organ to play traditional wedding selections as well as "We've Only Just Begun."

ESCORTED TO the altar by her father, the bride was gown in a creation of bridal taffeta designed with a ruffled neckline and bishop sleeves on the little fitted bodice. Re-embroidered alencon lace was used to accent the collar, cuffs and panels on the skirt and train.

Complimenting the bridal gown was an elbow-length veil of silk illusion secured by a Juliet cap and a colonial bouquet of white daisies mixed with purple statice and baby's breath.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Janet Brown of Belleville as matron of honor and Terry Laney and Carol Gaffney of Ypsilanti, the bridesmaids.

Their identical ensembles included floor-length gowns with orchid crepe skirts, lace bodices, Juliet sleeves and high necklines. Their accessories were full-length matching veils and bouquets of assorted orchid colored flowers.

Eight-year-old Tammy Runyon was her sister's flower girl in a full-length frock with an orchid skirt and floral bodice and lacey ribboned bonnet.

Danny Sultana, eight-year-old cousin of the bridegroom, carried out the role of ringbearer.

BEST MAN was Bob Brown of Belleville with Mike Anderson of Belleville and Bob Thorne of Ypsilanti serving as ushers.

At the reception, which followed in the church's fellowship hall, the bride's mother received guests in a formal baby-blue gown with harmonizing accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose to wear a pale purple floor-length gown with a matching pin and accessories. Both were presented with orchid corsages.

Since their return, the newlyweds have taken up residence at 50333 Willis Road, Belleville.

A 1973 graduate of Belleville High School, the new Mrs. Alford is employed at T & C Discount, Belleville. Her husband was graduated from Belleville High in 1970 and is employed by General Motors at Willow Run.

The rehearsal dinner April 20 was hosted by the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Alford.

MISS SUCHECKI

June 23 altar date scheduled

The engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Karen Ann, to Garry Lynn Sherman is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Chester E. Suchecki of 2319 George Avenue, Ypsilanti.

The bride-elect, currently employed as a clerk-typist at Jim Robbins Seat Belt Company, is a 1972 Belleville High School graduate who attended Washtenaw Community College.

Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sherman of 765 N. Harris Road, Ypsilanti, attended Willow Run High School and is an employee of Summer and Kauffman Shoes, Inc.

St. Ursula Catholic Church, Ypsilanti, has been reserved for the June 23 wedding.

Miss Vaughn is honored at shower

Mrs. Gary Vaughn of Romulus and her mother, Mrs. Lloyd Orr of Harmony Lane, were co-hostesses at a miscellaneous bridal shower honoring Brenda Vaughn. Held at the Orr home on Sunday afternoon, May 6, decorations were in pink and lavender, the bridal colors.

Refreshments were served after the bride-to-be had opened her gifts.

Brenda will become the bride of Ray Joslyn in a ceremony at the First Baptist in Wayne on June 15.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

Tomorrow's forecast from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Steer clear of any arguments which could turn into an unpleasant battle. Overlook some associates acting in an overly independent manner. Control an urge to break up present benefits for new surroundings. Express happiness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Communicating with out-of-towners is fine, but don't commit yourself in any way. Go to the right sources for the data you need. Evening is particularly fine for the social side of life.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Do something to improve your health and you can easily handle those responsibilities in the future. Strive for a more harmonious relationship with mate. Show kindness to one who is ill.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't sever connections with an associate because you are in a strange mood or you will regret it later on. Show that you are steadfast with others, even under difficult conditions.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Put all that energy into doing your work in a most precise way and you add to present benefits. Take no chances in handling monetary matters at this time. Take health treatments.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You want romance, but make sure you don't force yourself on anyone. Start perfecting your finest talents and improve your position in life. Avoid one who can be harmful to your progress.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try to understand the views of kin better and be helpful so there's more harmony at home. don't be so critical of others. Find a better way to add to present income. Use care in travel.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Much care in motion is important now or you could get into a costly accident. Take care of your purse or wallet when out shopping. Avoid those who are in an angry mood at this time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't think you have to spend a good deal of money to gain another's favor. Forget visiting an adviser who has own problems and could do little for you now. Do your own thinking.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make your plans carefully if you want to add to present abundance, otherwise hasty action now could result in loss. Don't be forceful with anyone. A diplomatic approach is best.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If someone has slighted you, just know that person isn't worth worrying about. Carry through with whatever you have promised to others. Assist one who needs your help.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Avoid friends today since you are not in the right mood for them and there could be an argument. Keep busy at the work you have to do. Try not to bother others with your personal woes.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure you take no unnecessary risks in any business dealings today. Observe every rule and regulation that applies to you. Pay bills when due. Show that you are conscientious.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who will act on impulse and get in trouble if you don't teach to be more disciplined. There is honesty here. Work in foreign countries could be most profitable. Teach to do nothing that could bring criticism from others. Musical talent here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Horse show May 17-20

A record 1,400 of the finest horses from throughout the Midwest and Canada are entered in the annual all-breed Michigan Horse Show at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum May 17-20. The show began last weekend.

Due to the large number of entries, the competition for Arabians, Morgans and Half-Arabians was held May 12 and 13.

The competition for the American Saddlebred, Hunters, Palominos, Pintos, Quarter Horses and Tennessee Walking Horses will run from Thursday through Sunday.

The 1973 program is sponsored by the Michigan Horse Show Association (MHSA). Sessions each day will start at 8 a.m., 1 p.m., and 7 p.m.

Tickets are priced at $1 and can be purchased in advance from members of the MHSA and the Moslem Arabian Horse Troop of Detroit or at the Coliseum box office on the show dates.

Show Manager Ralph R. Curtis of Oxford, Mich., said the horses will compete for $25,000 in prize money, ribbons, trophies and show points.

"This year's show reflects the growing popularity of horse showing in this area and represents our largest show," Curtis added. "To accommodate the record numbers, we have had to schedule the activities for two weekends at the fairgrounds."

Joan of Arc was burned at the stake at Rouen, France.

Amen, used at the end of Christian prayers, is Hebrew meaning "so let it be."

The show is sanctioned by major horse associations and clubs in Michigan, the Midwest, Canada and the American Horse Shows Association.

Hospital Authority lauded by senators

A tribute to the People's Community Hospital Authority (PCHA), which serves 23 communities in the western Wayne County area, was unanimously approved by the Michigan Senate.

Sponsored by Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, the tribute honors PCHA for "its great work in providing improved and modern health care service for the people of Michigan."

"I feel it is fitting that the senate approved this resolution during the (May 6-12) observance of National Hospital Week," said Faust.

"Certainly, the PCHA deserves recognition as an outstanding provider of hospital care service which is providing job and educational opportunities never before offered in this area of the state."

The PCHA coordinates and utilizes hospital resources and facilities of some 23 member communities.

Dealers name first officers

The newly formed Southeastern Michigan Recreational Vehicle Dealers (SEMRVD) chapter of the Michigan Mobile Home and Recreational Vehicle Institute (MMHRVI) has elected Howard W. Monson of Dearborn Heights its first president.

Currently eligible for membership in the new chapter are 56 dealers in the counties of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, and Washtenaw.

Monson said the formation of the chapter is a move to strengthen the position of the four-county recreational vehicle dealers within the MMHRVI in order to better cooperate with the parent group.

Improved consumer relations as well as better dealer relations will be included in the SEMRVD program, he said.

Monson, president of Monson & Son Trailer Sales, 24023 Ann Arbor Trail, Dearborn Heights, also is chairman of the state-wide group, the Recreational Vehicle Division of the MMHRVI.

Other officers of the SEMRVD are:

Vice president: Harold Taylor, Crawford Trailers Inc., 7667 S. Telegraph Road, Taylor, Michigan.

Moose notes

Newly elected officers of the Belleville Moose Lodge No. 934 have been installed.

They are:

Emmett Mills, governor; Carl Higgins, junior governor; Raymond Little, prelate; Kenneth Reed, treasurer; Darryl DeBilzan, one year trustee; John Johnson, two year trustee; Clifford McQuire, three-year trustee. George Manley has been advanced to the position of past governor.

There will be a dance Saturday at the lodge hall from 9:30 p.m. until 1:30 a.m. Cliff Harvelle and the "Star Lites" will entertain.

On Sunday, May 20, there will be an enrollment, starting at 2 p.m.

location of the future Lutheran Church of The Apostles building on the east side of Sumpter Road between Hull and Bemis roads, Van Buren Township. Others (from left) are Eldean Weidmayer, member of the church council; and Irvin VonDestinon, vice president of the church council.

Lutheran church to be built

The Lutheran Church of The Apostles in Belleville celebrated its first birthday at the 9:30 a.m. worship service Sunday, Pastor Harold E. Koch announced.

The services were conducted in the Seventh Day Adventist Church, 105 N. Liberty St., Belleville.

Special recognition was given the charter members present who stood as the charter was read and their names called. Sixty-one adults hold charter membership.

DURING ITS FIRST year the congregation grew to 80 adult and 37 child members.

A new church building is to be built on a 10-acre site located on the east side of Sumpter Road between Hull and Bemis roads, Van Buren Township. The land parcel was purchased by the Board of American Missions of the Lutheran Church in America on behalf of the congregation.

Under the auspices of the Board of American Missions of the Lutheran Church in America and with the approval of the Lutheran Council in United States, work was begun in the Belleville area by Pastor Koch in August, 1971.

The first service of worship was conducted Sunday, Nov. 7, 1971 in the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Memorial Hall, located on Bemis Road, Van Buren Township with 63 adults and children present.

The congregation continued to meet in the VFW Hall until September, 1972 at which time the Seventh Day Adventist Church became available for regular Sunday worship.

Worship services are conducted each Sunday at 9:30 a.m. with Sunday School for all ages at 10:45 a.m.

Twenty-one pre-schoolers were members of the 1973 Pre-School graduation program at St. Aloysius Catholic School, Romulus.

The graduation ceremonies were held at the 10:30 a.m. Sunday Mass, May 6 at St. Aloysius Catholic Church in Romulus.

A white mum and special blessing in the form of a diploma was presented to each graduate in the special ceremony after Sunday class.

The names of this year's pre-school graduates are: John Admonitis, Sandra Barr, Margaret Blaskay, Julianne Bolduc, Shelly Clark, Kelly Deinhardt and Evetts Drouillard.

Paper drive set

The spring paper drive sponsored by St. Aloysius Catholic School in Romulus will be held on the weekend of May 18-20 in the school parking lot.

Old newspapers, catalogs, magazines, phone books will be welcomed. All proceeds of the paper drive will go toward the benefit of the school.

NEW SUNROOM — "Walls" of wide-view, operating windows can turn an old porch into a bright, new sunroom. A leading window manufacturer suggests using casements (shown here), gliders or awnings for this purpose.

Enclose porch; Create sunroom

If you think of the old front porch with fondness, chances are your present home doesn't have one. If it does, you also know that open porches collect dust and debris, and are unusable most of the year.

However, there is a way to have the charm of a porch with none of its problems. Enclose the area with windows and create a modern sunroom. You'll gain a substantial amount of living space, and be able to enjoy the outdoors in all kinds of weather.

Enclosing a porch is a popular home improvement. Certain essentials — a roof, floor, supports, and one wall — already exist. Additional walls, windows, heat and insulation will be needed.

Here are some remodeling hints:

—Porches generally have a pitched floor for rain runoff, and open areas underneath. In remodeling, you may need to install new joists over the old floor.

Wood shingles that are machine-cut (as compared to those which are handsplit) are called "shakes" in some areas of the country.

What's new on the market?

THE PRODUCT — A jet "gun" for removing stoppages in toilet bowls, floor drains, wash basins and other piping complexes.

Manufacturer's claim — That gas pressure is released from an aerosol-type cartridge when the tool is fired ... that the pressure strikes a single hammer-like blow to water in pipe or drain ... that this pressure is transmitted 250 feet down the line, dislodging the obstruction ... that the action of the tool will not damage piping ... and that, since the gun is fired in water, there is no loud noise.

THE PRODUCT — Plastic housing that makes an electric drill shockproof as well as unusually light in weight.

Manufacturer's claim — That the housing is made of polycarbonate and guaranteed for life against breakage ... that it will not crack from low temperatures nor warp from extreme heat ... that it is non-conductive and that the drills using it carry UL labels ... that the housing won't rust, dent, peel or corrode.

THE PRODUCT — A group of 16 garden hose connectors designed to allow the user to connect or disconnect house and water accessories without turning off the faucets.

Manufacturer's claim — That the line is composed of couplings, hose menders, regular nozzles, pistol-jet nozzles and area sprinklers ... that the connections and disconnections are made with a quick click ... that a special gripper ring is used so that the harder the hose is pulled, the tighter the connection becomes ... and that there are two sizes of replacement couplings to cover different sizes of garden hose.

THE PRODUCT — An add-on stairs for swimming pools that features a jet spray for water massage.

Manufacturer's claim —

Paved areas enhance home

"There I was — an ugly, run-down sidewalk, just a dull, uninteresting slab of concrete — until one day my owner hit me with a magic wand — plang — and made me beautiful."

You may not have a magic wand, but you can make the paved areas around your home vital and attractive parts of your landscape, according to Michigan State University landscape specialists.

These experts say there are several things to consider in landscape paving. One of these is color. Does it blend in with or accent the other colors in your present landscape? Or does it stick out like a sore thumb?

TEXTURE is another important factor. Rough textures reduce glare and provide safer footing, but smooth surfaces are better for games or dancing.

Take a look at the different types of materials that are available. Ask yourself, what would each type cost? Is it readily available? Can I install it myself? Is it durable? What kind of maintenance will it require? Weigh the advantages and disadvantages of each type, and then you'll be able to decide what's right for you. Here are the basic choices:

ASPHALT — is durable, fairly inexpensive and may be painted or colored. But it's hot in the summer and may become soft. It needs a stable base like sand, old concrete or gravel to prevent heaving in winter.

BRICK — gives good footing, is available in several warm colors and is one of the easiest paving materials to install. It has the disadvantage of being hard to clean, and weeds or grass often grow between the joints. Some bricks tend to soak up water and often crumble after freezing. Check out this quality early.

CONCRETE — may be given either a smooth or rough finish and is relatively low cost. It has a rather hard, "commercial" look, and is often hot in the summer. A pleasing effect can be achieved by allowing pebbles to become exposed on the surface.

FLAGSTONE — is a high-quality, very durable material that is available in several colors, but its high cost limits its use. Broken concrete may be used as a substitute if it is readily available.

AGGREGATES — low-

IMPROVE YOUR HOME

cost gravel, crushed rock or limestone chips can give a pleasingly textured natural look to your landscape, but it's hard to walk on and weeds often cause problems. Try wood chips or garden bark as a substitute.

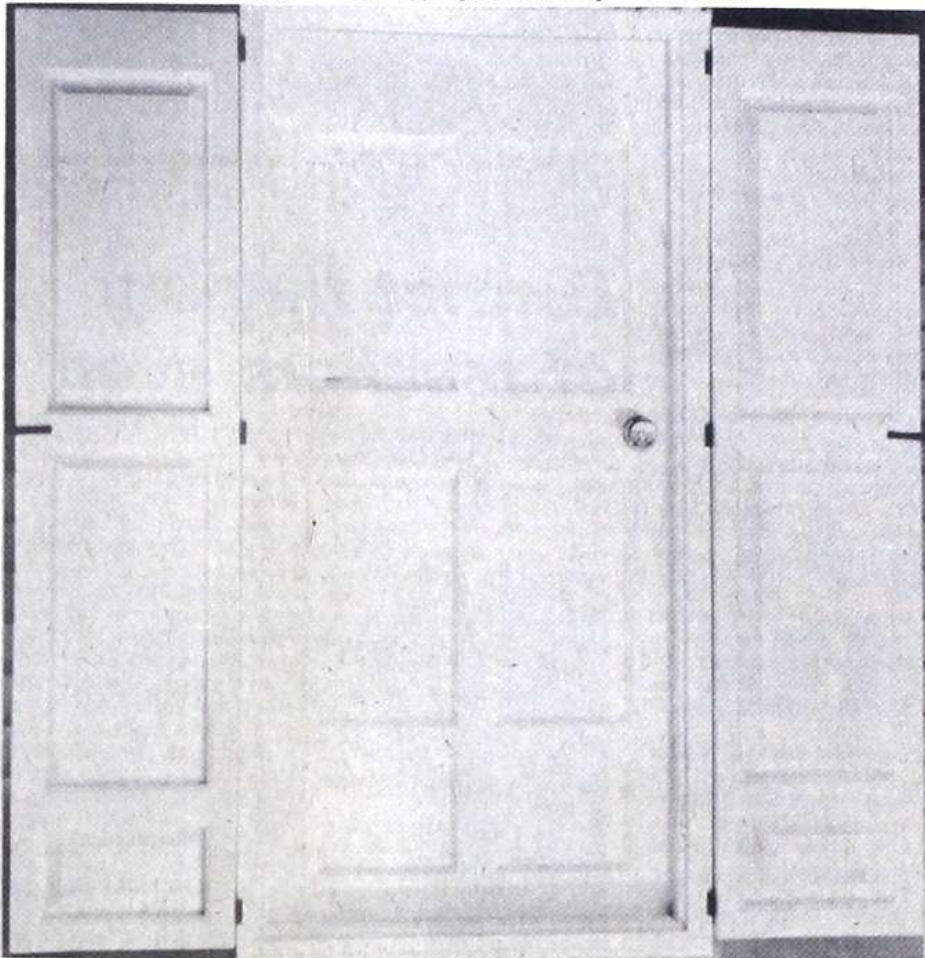

TILE — is becoming more popular as an outdoor paving material. It gives a rather formal look and is easy to clean. Its main drawback is its rather high cost, and it usually needs to be set in concrete for stability.

WOOD — is desirable as a temporary pavement treatment. Since native woods need pressure, they are subject to decay, insect infestation and weathering. Redwood from the west has a nice texture, and can last for many years.

Give your imagination a free rein — and the paved areas around your home can become beautiful as well as functional.

ENHANCE ENTRYWAY — New, maintenance-free door-length shutters can enhance an entire entryway without adding to a homeowner's upkeep chores. They need no painting.

Q. About a year ago I put down vinyl asbestos tile in our recreation room. I now am thinking about installing the same kind of tile as wainscoting four feet up the wall. My wife says she wonders whether floor tile will hold properly on a wall. Will it?

A. Yes, but you must use the proper adhesive. You need what is called a hard-setting adhesive, such as that used when installing cove base. When you buy the tile, the manufacturer's instructions will advise you exactly what kind of adhesive to use.

When putting tile on a wall, spread only enough adhesive to handle six to eight tiles at a time. Position the tiles carefully, press firmly in place and roll with a hand roller of the kind used to secure wallpaper seams.

Q. I see advertisements for shiplap lumber and dressed-and-matched lumber. My dictionary says that shiplap is "wooden sheathing in which the boards are rabbeted so that the edges of each board lap over the edges of adjacent boards to make a tight joint," but I can't find any definition of the other kind.

A. Both shiplap and dressed-and-matched lumber are designed to make tight-fitting joints. The shiplap has lapped edges as explained in the dictionary. Dressed-and-matched lumber has a tongue on one side and a groove on the other. You probably already know it as tongue-and-groove lumber. It is generally agreed that the tongue-and-groove design makes an even tighter joint than shiplap, but it costs more.

Q. We would like to paint the aluminum mesh in our screens. Is any primer needed?

A. Zinc chromate is the recommended primer before painting the mesh. First clean the mesh with turpentine or mineral spirits to remove all dirt and grime.

Q. I have a set of instructions for putting down a brick walk. It says all bricks should be thoroughly wet before they are put in place. Can you tell me why this is necessary?

A. I assume this is for a brick walkway in which mortar will be placed between the bricks. Unless the bricks are soaked completely, either by leaving them in water for a half hour or more or by running a garden hose over them for 10 or 15 minutes, they will soak up the water in the mortar. If the bricks are themselves saturated, they will be unable to absorb any of the water from the mortar.

Indoor plants need extra care

Three ingredients of success in the continuing health of indoor plants in a home or office are: light, humidity and temperature.

The American Association of Nurserymen counsels that the amount of light required by an indoor planting depends on the type of plant, itself.

The garden center will recommend the density of light required for each plant. For some, the natural light available, will suffice; others will require additional illumination. The moisture, or humidity, required is usually less than the amateur indoor gardener might expect.

A "moisture meter" is a highly useful device for measuring this factor, and is available from most garden centers.

The happiest temperature for indoor plants is about 70 to 72 degrees, and offices or homes with a number of plantings should avoid changing the temperature significantly at night.

New style shutter an eye-catcher

Want a handsome new feature for the front door? Maintenance-free door-height shutters are a bell-ringer.

The shutters are 80-inches high, the height of an average entry. They come in two styles: louvers—with strong, deep shadowlines; and raised panels—with a rich, sculptured look.

A welcome addition to any entrance, the authentic designs especially suit colonial or traditional doors and decors.

Made of tough, rigid vinyl fastened to a treated and painted wood frame, the shutters need no painting. Mounting hardware is factory-applied.

Shutters are the latest addition to a full line of low-maintenance windows and gliding patio doors.

The newly-marketed door shutters are decorative companions to window shutters.

Create handy pencil holder

Create a handy attractive pencil holder for your home desk by covering a soup can with fabric or contact paper to match or contrast with the room.

Fabric can be affixed with glue. Trimmed with ribbon for a dainty, feminine look; stark fabrics or bold prints for a masculine room.

Commission considers care for retarded kids

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has given preliminary approval to a county-state task force report proposing a new system of improved care for retarded children.

Meeting as the Ways and Means Committee May 10, the county legislators approved the report "in principle" by unanimous vote. Final approval is expected at the formal Board meeting Thursday.

The report recommends that retarded and emotionally-troubled children be placed in community-based residential facilities and that a central referral agency be established to evaluate and place the youngsters.

The Wayne County Child Development Center, a residential institution now housing some 245 such children, would be closed after its present students all are placed in community facilities.

APPROVAL OF the report was recommended by the board's Human Resources Committee.

The Ways and Means Committee also approved three resolutions which were recommended by the Human

Area spelling champ 16th

Vanessa Hall, seventh grader at South Junior High School, Belleville, winner of Wayne County District No. 2 Spelling Contest, placed 16th in the 1973 Metropolitan Spelling Bee held last Thursday in the WWJ Auditorium.

Vanessa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hall, 17981 Sumpter Rd., Belleville. The district spelling bee was held at the Elwell Road Elementary School, Belleville.

Vanessa also won the championship contest at the South Junior High School.

This year's annual spelling bee attracted approximately 30,000 students in the Detroit Metropolitan area.

Resources Committee as steps toward implementing the report.

One resolution establishes the Central Referral Agency and directs it to receive referrals from all appropriate sources, including state and local agencies, physicians, schools and parents.

The resolution also states that there are 31 city, county, state and private referral agencies in Wayne County, and that a committee of representatives from the task force and the Board of Commissioners will be created to determine the need for additional resources.

IN CALLING for the closing of the Child Development Center, another resolution says that an institutional environment of its type is contrary to modern methods of treatment.

It also states that the Center will not be closed until each child has been properly placed in the community, and asks for a designated team of health authorities to bear responsibility for proper placement.

According to the resolution, a team is to consist of representatives from the Plymouth State Home and Northville Residential Center, the Children and Youth Committee of the Mental Health Services Board, and various Departments of social services, vocational rehabilitation, public health, and education.

The final resolution offers departmental transfers, employment preference and training programs for employees who will be displaced when the Child Development Center is closed.

District training of teachers eyed

A special Michigan Senate committee studying teacher education has proposed that local or intermediate school districts be allowed to train their own teachers, it was reported by Sen. William Faust, D-Westland.

Faust, a member of the special teacher education committee charged with investigating teacher training at Michigan colleges and universities, said the unique program might provide the answer to the state's teacher problem.

Regular school classrooms, would be used by the local districts as teacher-trainee laboratories," Faust said. "The teacher-trainee would become an apprentice and so would receive practical training relevant to the particular problems of the local district."

IN ITS REPORT, the committee said 8,000 to 10,000 graduates this year in the teaching field may be without jobs due to the overabundance of teachers being produced at Michigan institutions and the lack of jobs.

"In the meantime, more public money is being distributed to train teachers for jobs that apparently do not exist," the report said.

To deal with this supply and demand problem, the committee recommended that each university send an annual report to the State Board of Education and the legislature on how many students are studying to be teachers and their areas of specialization.

Under the committee's recommendations, the State Education Department would also report to the legislature on the number of teachers in the state and the subjects they teach.

The education department's report would also recommend which teacher training programs should be renewed and which college programs could be consolidated to increase effectiveness.

"THIS IS A VERY REAL problem," Faust said. "The report points out that some

Belleville High School honor roll announced

Three sets of twins attending Belleville High School are among the top honor roll students for the second marking period of the second semester, high school officials announced.

They are John and Charles Dougherty, 10th grade students and sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Dougherty, 126 Biggs St., Belleville. They earned an all "A" average for the period.

Edward and Richard Wilson, 11th graders and sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson, 42615 E. Huron River Dr., Belleville. They also earned an all "A" average for the period.

CHRIS AND RUSSELL Stinehour, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stinehour, 407 E. Huron River Dr., Belleville. The Stinehour students earned an "A" and "B" average during the period.

School officials report that it is very unusual to have listed on the honor roll three sets of twins.

The honor roll listed a total of 42 students who have earned an all "A" average.

Convalescent Center sets open house

The Van Buren Convalescent Center, 44401 Willow Run Expressway, (south service drive) will hold open house from 1 to 8 p.m. Friday.

A "mini international fair" will be held at the occupational therapy room and a prize will be awarded to the best exhibit prepared by the center's employees.

The panel of judges who will judge the various exhibits is composed of John Herr, executive director; Miss Rosalyn Korotkin, administrator; Warren Brewer, residential representative; and Nelson Nedals, ombudsman committee member.

The over-all chairman is Marge Hunter, who also is the divisional activity chairman of the center. She is being assisted by Miss Glenda Sims, nursing office secretary.

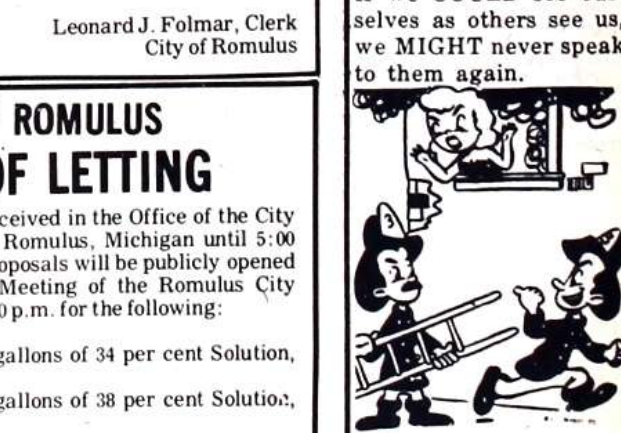

Snacks will be served and volunteers will act as hostesses.

Correction

Publication of a photograph relating to the recent student-faculty art show held at the South Junior High School contained wrong identification of one of the four persons pictured. The correct name was Kim Rousseau, not Cindy John as stated.

PARENTS ASSIST AT SCHOOL—A program of unpaid volunteers who assist the teaching staff at Edgemont Elementary School is nearing the end of a successful year. Mrs. Fred A. Estermyer watches pupils put their

Parents are completing a successful year working in the kindergarten class at Edgemont Elementary School in Belleville.

Workshops in the summer of 1972 provided the impetus for the program for the unpaid volunteers.

Carpentry and painting as well as assisting the children with projects such as cooking, stichery, crafts and puppetry have provided some of the programs. Parents have also served as resource people on study units such as "Rocks," "Sea Life" and "Snakes."

Doors between the kindergarten rooms are open so that all of the children may profit from the shared experiences. A mother may be reading to a group in one room while a dad is handling wood working in another room next door. The workbench, incidentally was made and donated by a parent.

Both teachers, Mrs. Jon Rinka and Mrs. James Haveranek, agree that the program has greatly improved the kindergarten experience this year.

STORY TIME— Edgemont Elementary School in Belleville has initiated a parent-volunteer program in which parents assist kindergarten pupils. In the scene above, Mrs. Fred A. Estermyer reads a story to one of the kindergarten pupils as others gather. From left are Ted Lee, Norman Walker, Tommy Estermyer, on mother's lap; and Tracy Williams.

At the suggestion of one of the parents, the teachers and present aides are holding a coffee hour at Edgemont Elementary School at 7:30 p.m. May 15 to discuss the program.

'Happy-Grams' attract out-of-state comment

"Happy-Grams" which are given out to parents when a student does something special, earns good marks and deportment or some other related classroom activity, is not only proving to be an excellent improvement induced program at Van Buren Public Schools, but has attracted the attention of school officials outside Michigan.

The Happy-Gram program, initiated in the elementary schools of Van Buren Public School District, then spread to both the junior and senior high schools, consists of giving the student a bright yellow Happy-Gram to take home to his or her parents which informs them of "good news" regarding the progress of the student in his classroom work or related activity.

Happy-Grams resemble a telegram with a smiling face at the top. They are intended according to local school officials to change the image many parents have to their children's schools.

THEY ARE ALSO used to notify the parents of special achievement or when a problem student changes his ways.

A communication from Waco Independent School District, Waco, Texas, received by Samuel LePreste, principal at Edgemont Elementary School in Belleville, where Happy-Grams were first used, contained a newspaper write-up of the Happy-Gram program and added:

"I have used the enclosed 'Thank-U-Grams' (sent copy) - I copied from something years ago - but your idea sounds better for our schools. Would you be so kind as to share one of your bright-yellow papers with me?"

THE PRECEDING was sent by E.B. Morrow, principal of the Parkdale Elementary School, Waco.

Another communication from L.J. Carlan of Weymouth, Mass., said:

"Your idea of Happy-Grams copied from the Los Angeles Times in Boston papers struck a note of appeal. I have two young people in teaching to whom I would like to pass on this 'gem,' one teaching in Germany and one in Massachusetts."

"Is there any special form of letter or other information necessary and would it be permissible for me to do this?"

Huron Prom attracts 52 couples

By SUE MAIANI

Last Saturday the 1973 Prom, "Somewhere Over the Rainbow," was held at the Sheraton Cadillac Hotel in Detroit. Fifty two couples attended this year's dinner-dance which was held on the fourth floor in the Crystal Ballroom.

The American Scene was the band, which played not only soft music, but a few faster beats. With great food, music and excitement this year's prom was definitely a success as well as a remembrance for all who went.

This Saturday, May 19, 38 students and three chaperones will take a trip to Cedar Point for three days. Students attending this years trip should be at the High School at 5:45 a.m. on Saturday. For more details, contact any class officer or sponsor.

The art students of Huron opened their 1973 "Art Gallery" Monday, from 7:30-

Indian addresses pupils

John B. Sitting Bull, grandson of the famed Sioux leader, Sitting Bull, recently visited students at Quirk Elementary School, Belleville.

John B. Sitting Bull, 73, resides in the City of Taylor. He wore the feathered headdress and 100-year-old accessories of his grandfather.

He is a member of the North American Indian Club of Detroit, which has many tribes represented, including Mohawk, Sioux, Ottawa, Chippewa and others.

The students heard John B. Sitting Bull relate the "rich" heritage of the Indian.

Theater workshop planned

A summer theater workshop and a dance class will be offered for college credit to high school juniors and seniors as well as college students from Monday, June 25 through July 28 at Mercy College of Detroit.

Albert Zolton, speech and drama department chairman, outlined the theatre workshop to include play selection and analysis, auditioning procedures, casting, rehearsals, and directing principles; principles of acting including voice production, use of the body and character development; principles of technical theatre including set and lighting design, set construction and use of sound.

The dance program under Mirdza Lemanis will teach ballet, free style movement and character dance.

Three credits for each program will be offered and either held in escrow for use at Mercy or for transfer to other colleges and universities.

The workshop will conclude with the production of a play, including dance, for public performance.

Tuition is $100 for each program.

Theater classes will meet daily from 11 to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m.; dance classes from 9:30 to 11 a.m. daily.

For further information persons may call 531-7820, Ext. 310 or 286.

Citizen parking violator — If it were within my power to issue tickets, you would receive two. Because of your bull-headed, inconsiderate, feeble attempt at parking, you have taken enough room for a 20-mule team, 2 elephants, 1 goat and a safari of pygmies from the African interior.

The reason for bringing this to your attention is that in the future you may think of someone else, other than yourself. Besides, I don't like domineering, egotistical or simple-minded drivers and you probably fit into one of these categories. I sign off wishing you an early transgression failure (on the expressway at about 4:30 p.m.), also may the fleas of a thousand camels infest your armpits.

State takes highway bids for construction in area

Bids will be taken in Lansing May 16 on highway construction and maintenance projects, costing an estimated $5.63 million, in the Westland-Romulus-Livonia area.

The largest project is for the widening of a 1.5 mile portion of the I-94 to a six-lane divided freeway between Morton-Taylor Road and Haggerty Road just east of Romulus. The project is expected to be completed by May, 1975 at a cost of an estimated $4.33 million and is to include construction of a bridge carrying Haggerty Road over the I-94, grading, drainage structures and paving.

Bids also will be taken on a project necessary to prepare the roadbed for the future I-275, presently under construction, which will extend from the I-75 near Newport to the I-96 in Livonia.

Troop 372 cited for cookie sale

Girl Scout Troop No. 372 recently received a certificate of merit from Romulus Area Girl Scout council chairman Michele Renke. This is the second year that Troop 372 of Gordonier Elementary School in Romulus has won the contest for selling the most cookies, among all the troops in the city. The troop sold a total of 1,420 packages during the recent sale.

Mrs. Connie Eberline, leader and Mrs. Connie DeLong, assistant leader, also awarded prizes to five of the girls from the troop who personally sold over 100 packages of cookies: Kathleen DeLong, Tammy Eberline, Sheila Cribbs, Sheila Cook and Theresa Fyfe.

Plans for the roadbed preparation call for the clearing, grubbing, earthwork, grading and installation of drainage structures over a five and one-half mile stretch of land from a point near Huron River Drive north to the C&O Railroad in Romulus. The project is expected to cost $880,000 and be completed by December, 1974.

The third project will include intersection improvements on Edward N. Hines Drive from Joy Road to Ann Arbor Trail, at Inkster Road and Eight Mile Road, Seven Mile Road and Middle Belt Road and Seven Mile Road and Merriman Road in Livonia and Westland. The project will be financed by the federal TOPICS program at an estimated cost of $420,000 and is slated for completion by November, 1973.

Bids also will be taken May 16 on 56 other highway construction and maintenance projects in Michigan, costing an estimated $44 million.

Rooftop of the Rockies--Estes National Park

When it comes to visitor attractions, there's plenty to do in "The Rooftop of the Rockies." There are surprises galore — for the world traveler or the novice camper alike.

Enos A. Mills, founder of Rocky Mountain National Park, would be proud of the way things have gone in this country. He first gazed on the Estes Valley in Colorado in the spring of 1861, when he was just 21. Majestic Longs Peak still stands watch — as it did over a century ago — but below, well, even his far reaching vision could never comprehend the vast changes that were to come.

Now the village of Estes Park plays host to millions every year. Each year sees more people enjoying the splendor of the National Park Enos Mills helped create.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN National Park, located just west of the village of Estes Park, still retains the spectacular scenery which has been the quest of so many. The Old Fall River Road virtually follows the trail used by the Utes and Arapahoes before the coming of the "white man." Now you can drive where, ages ago, it took days to make the same journey. The air is so crisp you can break it in your hands and the lakes and streams still gush forth with their crystal pure water.

Though nature's beauty remains unchanged, there are many additions which will make your visit to this wilderness even more enjoyable. There's now Trail Ridge Road, the nation's highest continuous automobile highway, which goes west from Estes Park — across the great Continental Divide. This spectacular drive across the top of the world now gives you access to the heartland of this bountiful retreat.

The elk and game are still here. In fact, they're even more plentiful now than a century ago. Man has both protected and improved nature's balance. The natural refuge of the National Park, good wildlife management and controlled hunting seasons in the area now assure the visitor ample opportunity to observe even the Rocky Mountain Big Horn Sheep as they come down to feast at the lower lakes.

THE SPRING flowers still bloom. In fact, if you listen ever so carefully, you can almost hear them stretch as they wake from their long winter sleep. There is no more beautiful flower than the Columbine, the state flower of Colorado, and these high mountain valleys teem with their brilliant colors.

Each season has its own special charm and even the fall, as the aspen trees turn their golden hue, seem eager for the glistening white snow soon to grace the high country.

Where then is the change? Well, the meager meals of Enos Mills' time have been replaced. Now beautiful restaurants offer outstanding cuisine in the nearby village of Estes Park. Only minutes away from the seclusion of the nation's most beautiful national park you can gaze at the towering peaks — yet bask in the convenience of a more modern setting.

THEY SAY that a golf ball travels even further in the clear, clean mountain air. Judging by the resounding "crack" as club meets ball they just may be right. Those enjoying Estes Park's two public courses certainly think so.

Horseback riding your bag? Maybe you'd prefer swimming — or perhaps fishing in those rushing streams you've always heard about. Both the Big Thompson and Fall River wind their way through Estes Park and they teem with the wily trout.

The scenery of the mountain lakes is beyond description and you hardly want to cause a ripple by casting out your line — yet you know that the large and hardy trout below are hungry and the initial impulse leaves as your mouth waters in anticipation of a fresh trout for dinner.

WHILE IN Estes Park you can find an attraction for everyone. Amusements are available for the small fry so you needn't fret about keeping them entertained. When they tire of hiking, horseback riding and sightseeing you can let them swim in one of the many pools, ride a miniature train, visit an amusement complex, see a museum or take them to a horseshow. You can all take in the sights — over 320 days a year so you needn't worry — there's plenty of time to get that "vacation glow."

Guest ranches, secluded cabins or luxurious motels offer every convenience. But, if you'd rather rough it there are campgrounds or tent sites which graciously blend into the mountain scenery.

Nightlife in the high country may include a fireside talk by park rangers or living it up in a topnotch nightclub. There's a lot for all and each will find entertainment and beauty to suit their palate. Estes Park, always a family vacation favorite, is now being re-discovered by the more modern vacationer. Plays, tennis courts, tours, theatres and even the public library all add to the excitement. Even the unique shops in town compliment this quaint village.

YET ALL THIS, and more, is only a little more than an hour away from the mile high city of Denver. The Estes Valley is easily accessible all the year and the roads leading into Estes Park from Denver have not been closed due to snow in over 30 years. On the way up from Denver you can come north to Loveland and then west into Estes Park via the spectacular Big Thompson Canyon. If you prefer a more direct route you can come up the North St. Vrain from Lyons, Colorado, and many visitors have found that the scenic Peak to Peak Highway, leading into Estes Park from the south, offers outstanding enjoyment as it parallels the Great Continental Divide.

While using Estes Park as your hub of activity, you won't want to miss seeing the unique village of Glen Haven — an authentic old Western town just minutes from Estes Park. Other "side" trips offer tons of enjoyment for anyone who appreciates the ever-changing mountain scenery.

Once you arrive in Estes Park, a visitor information center is staffed by a crew of charming hostesses — just waiting to assist you in mapping out your days — and nights. The center is open from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. so you can always find help in guiding your activities. They can tell you the schedule for the many rodeos and horseshows and really, the only thing they lack is your signature on the guest register.

If you have never visited the village of Estes Park before, you've got a pleasant surprise coming. Even in you have, you'll find that the community and National Park have taken great strides in making your next visit even more pleasurable.

The folks here take great pride in their community and anxiously await each coming season. For further information about this exciting year-round playground, we suggest you contact the Visitors Information Bureau or your local travel agent.

Either can assist you in designing your vacation adventure so that it includes a visit to this scenic wonderland.

Cranbrook Planetarium shows set

From the Great Pyramid of Egypt to the rings of Saturn, the seven wonders of our world and of our universe will be visited during the May planetarium demonstrations at Cranbrook Institute of Science.

The demonstrations are held hourly from 2 to 5 p.m. on weekends, at 4 p.m. Wednesdays and 8 p.m. Thursdays, at the Institute of Bloomfield Hills. Planetarium demonstrations are free with admission to the Institute of Science at the times specified.

The planetarium show begins with the exploration of the seven ancient wonders of the world, continues through the seven modern wonders and focuses on the seven celestial wonders of the universe including Skylab, the great galaxy in Andromeda, quasars and our moon.

Children under five are not admitted to the planetarium.

Visitors to the planetarium may view the special exhibit in the museum, "Ancient Egypt and the Tomb of Tutankhamen," at no additional charge. The Physics Hall with do-it-yourself experiments and one of the world's finest mineral collections are also open.

Following Thursday evening planetarium demonstrations Bill Schultz, Institute of Science astronomer, conducts a half-hour session in the observatory.

For further information on other events at the Institute of Science call 644-1600, Ext. 285. Museum admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for senior citizens and full-time students.

Cranbrook Institute of Science is one of the six educational, cultural, scientific and religious Cranbrook institutions.

CYO camp registration

Boys and girls, if you want to enjoy two weeks at a CYO camp this summer, you better act now!

The CYO camps on the shores of Lake Huron — one for boys and one for girls — enjoyed their busiest season last summer when they welcomed 1,405. Complete capacity for the two camps would have been 1,408. Late cancellations accounted for the three vacancies. Every period had a waiting list of youngsters whose applications could not be accepted.

Now, as the CYO camping program goes into its 27th year, interest is at a summit. The two camps are already filled to more than 50 per cent of capacity. This is slightly better than the figure for this time last year. For this reason, youths are advised to apply now if they want to be sure of a place at camp in the period of their choice.

Each camp will be open for four two-week periods, beginning June 30. The $95 fee includes board and room, health care and insurance and participation in the full camping program. The fee for the pioneer units is $100 for two weeks.

For further information and for reservations, contact the CYO Camp office, 305 Michigan Ave., Detroit, Tel., 963-7172.

LES BLANCS — Leonard Poole, Ralph McCain and Mark Hinds in the Bonstelle Theatre production of "Les Blancs," prize-winning playwright Lorraine Hansberry's moving drama about the tragic decision facing a black man in a rapidly changing world. Performances are May 18-19 and 25-26 at 8:30, May 20 and 27 at 2:30. For ticket information, call 577-2960.

Cinderella extended

The Greenfield Village Players' production of "Cinderella" is extended to May 26 with a special matinee performance.

It will be presented on Saturday afternoon May 26 at 2:30 in the Henry Ford Museum Theater.

The production abounds with dazzling magical effects, beautiful costumes and fanciful settings. Incidental music and visual tableaux add to the charm of the familiar childhood classic.

Designed for the enjoyment of the entire family, the plot takes unusual turns and the dialogue is filled with delightful and sometimes sardonic humor.

Tickets are $2.25 for adults and $1 for children 14 and under. They will be available at the theater box office before the performance. Special rates are available for groups of 20 or more. For additional information, persons may call 271-1620, Ext. 264.

Guild set to close

DEARBORN — The Fair Lane Music Guild will close out its third season on Sunday, May 20, with a "Little Mozart Festival," featuring the Village Chamber Players Young Artists and soloists from the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Under the artistic direction of Raymond Benner, the musicians will perform four works by the famous Austrian composer. The concert will be held in the Fair Lane Center on the campus of the University of Michigan - Dearborn. Concert time is 3 p.m., with program and ticket information available by phoning 271-2300, ext. 402.

The program opens with the Flute Concerto in D major (K.314). Shaul Ben-Meir will be the featured soloist. Originally composed in 1777 as an oboe concerto, Mozart rewrote the work in the following year for flute.

The spirited and witty "Musical Joke" in F major (K.522) completes the first half of the program. It is a musical spoof on the stupidity of a mediocre composer who attempts something beyond his ken.

Bassoonist Charles Sirad will be the featured soloist in Concerto for Bassoon and Orchestra in B-flat major (K.191). Written in 1774 for a wealthy amateur, the B-flat concerto is one of three written by Mozart for the bassoon.

The program concludes with the Symphony No. 29 in A major (K.201). Referred to as a "masterwork" by many scholars, the 29th is one of the composer's "early" symphonies. The mood is robust and cheerful with a long and well-developed finale.

The Young Artists represent some of the finest musical talent in the Detroit area. They have participated in several metropolitan area programs, including "Bach for a Buck" at Duns Scotus in Southfield.

The May 20 program will culminate a week long Mozart workshop involving the young artists and professional musicians.

Pot sale --and it's legal

It's annual and it's legit. Cranbrook Academy of Art's student pot — and print — sale, "Pots and Prints," will be held from 9 a.m. to dusk Saturday, May 19, through Monday, May 21.

The three-day sale will take place in the ceramics Crafts Court and the prints will be sold on the front lawn of the Academy administration building. Both are at 500 Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills. Ceramics in the pot sale will include many traditional utilitarian objects, such as cups and saucers and casseroles, as well as general functional pieces and sculptural ceramics. Prices start at $1.

Prints for sale will be lithographs, intaglios and silkscreens, most unmatwith some framed. Prices start at $10.

All objects are works of the 17 ceramic and 18 print-making students. Twenty per cent of the profits will go to the Academy Student Scholarship Fund and 5 per cent to the two departments.

Most ceramics and print-making students are graduate students and many have exhibited locally and nationally, receiving awards for their work.

Cranbrook Academy of Art grants the bachelor and master of fine arts and the master of architecture degrees. It is one of the six educational, cultural, religious and scientific Cranbrook institutions.

Romulus shot-putter wins regional title

Daryl Gooden, an outstanding all-around athlete, came up with a stellar performance in the shot put to win the regional championship staged at Belleville Saturday.

A pesky, consistent rain didn't stop the Romulus senior from orbiting the shot 53 feet, 2 inches to win the gold medal.

"Daryl has been ailing with a leg injury," said Eagle

Coach Jesse Meriweather, "but he still managed to win. I wish he wasn't a senior and that I had him back next year."

Daryl is the lone qualifier off of Meriweather's team. He will compete in the Class A finals to be held on Saturday at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

GOODEN ALSO won two events Monday in a losing cause against Inkster. The Eagles were left on the short end of a 72-49 decision. Gooden picked up the pole vault and his specialty, the shot put.

Romulus also had two other winners: John Trump dominated the two-mile run and Michael Darden placed first in the long jump with a 10:27 and 19 feet, 9 inch effort, respectively.

Unlike last year, Belleville High School will be well represented at Saturday's state class A track championships at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

Two of Coach Bob Boudreau's thinclads qualified to make the trip with sparkling performances at last Saturday's Class A regional hosted by the Tigers.

Ken Hall and Bruce Ford will represent Belleville, while two others, Chris Palnau and Gary VanBuhler, narrowly missed making the field.

Hall captured a second place in the 220 with a 23.5

clocking and third in the 440 at 51.8. Ford, a pole vaulter, soared 12'9". Palnau didn't make the top three in the mile run, as he placed fifth in 4:39.0. High jumper VanBuhler leaped 5'10" but had to settle for a non-qualifying fourth. Only the top three places qualify.

BELLEVILLE has its sights

now set on tonight's Suburban Eight Conference championships at Plymouth.

"We've only won one dual meet, but I think we could finish fifth or better if everybody performs up to par," Boudreau reasoned.

DARYL GOODEN

Huron outruns Monroe

Huron tuned up for its conference track championships with an overwhelming 80 1/2-42 1/2 victory over Monroe Jefferson. It was the Chiefs' third league victory in seven starts.

Coach Keith Reed's thinclads swept all of the running events with Ed Fakhoury and Mike Sovodash turning in with double wins. Sovodash also won the long jump with a leap of 10 feet, 1 1/2 inches, then ran a 15.8 in the high hurdles and polished off the lows in 21.3 to account for 15 points by himself.

Fakhoury dominated the quarter-mile run (51.2) and led teammate Dave Durham across the 220-yard finish line. The winning time was 23.8.

Meet Results: New Boston Huron 80 1/2-42 1/2; Monroe Jefferson 42 1/2-80 1/2.

The case of the 'Ypsi One'

By DALE GOWING

The Ypsilanti Little League situation, perhaps referred to now as The Case of the Ypsilanti One, has people talking everywhere, including Western Wayne County.

To keep things fresh in your mind, the case in question is the one where 12-year-old Carolyn King of Ypsilanti has been barred from participating in that city's Little League program, even though she beat out 12 other boys to make one of the teams.

When the head honchos at Little League headquarters at Williamsport, Pa., got wind that Carolyn had been accepted as a team member by Ypsilanti officials, they threatened to revoke the city's Little League charter — thus disqualifying all Ypsi LL teams from playing any All-Star, District tournament or World Series games.

SO, IN TURN, the boys in Ypsilanti's American Little League voted to keep Carolyn out to retain their charter.

What it all boils down to is that Carolyn will have to watch from the bleachers and the Little League has made some enemies. The City of Ypsilanti for one.

The city council announced last week that Ypsilanti's Little League teams will not be allowed to play on the city's diamonds, an effective sort of punishment for the organization's about-face, you must admit.

So where does that leave Ypsilanti's innocent boys — the ones wondering "Gee, dad, all I want to do is play baseball."

As it stands, the teams have no place to play. Ypsilanti's girls have been offended and the national Little League has some serious peace-making to do.

"We anticipated something like this happening in our city," says Garden City Youth Athletic Association President Jim Gibson, "so we initiated a girls softball program last year. We had 100 girls in it in 1972 and have doubled the number to 200 this year."

How does he feel about Ypsilanti's situation?

"Personally, I can't see jeopardizing the chances of our 1,000 boys (74 teams) not playing in All-Star games because of losing a charter," he admitted.

"WHO DO YOU satisfy? One girl or 1,000 boys?"

Gibson continued, "I don't feel it's in our best interest to participate locally then not be able to play outside our area in tournament games and such."

Gibson said if the situation did arise where girls demanded tryouts with a Little League team, that Garden City's Little League program would probably be disbanded in favor of Boys' Baseball, Inc.

Boys' Baseball, Inc., which Garden City has 32 teams competing in, is played with a closer adherence to major league baseball. For instance, stealing is allowed anytime, not just after the ball reaches the plate as in Little League. Also, the basepaths are longer and the game is generally rougher.

And girls likely wouldn't want to be a part of that.

"That would probably be our only out," Gibson said. Garden City's 32 teams are among 11,000 across the country, which conduct a national tournament just like Little League.

Westland has no Little League, but Parks and Recreation Director Mel Bailey says that if it did, and a girl ballplayer beat out a boy, "I'd recommend that serious consideration be given for adjusting the rules to let her play. My only concern is that there are safety factors involved — sliding and contact. If the proper officials didn't object to the contact, I would not object to her playing," he said.

INKSTER IS THE only city in the area where a girl has played right along with the boys. "Last year we had an 11-year-old girl playing in our midget division, which is not actual Little League," said Athletic Supervisor Booker Dozier. The girl played in Inkster's Junior Baseball Program.

"But if I were running the Little League and a girl wanted to play, I'd let her play or I'd get out of the organization," he insisted.

"After all, who am I to say a kid can't play if she really wants to?"

Hit parade

Denny Stolz, Michigan State's new head football coach, played his college football at Alma College in Michigan, which also produced Bob Devaney, Jesse Harper, Steve Sebo and George Allen.

Michigan State will play a football game at Syracuse this fall for the first time since 1939.

Churchill is WW Relays champ

By DALE GOWING

Depth-laden Livonia Churchill put on a dazzling display in the final event — the mile relay — to overcome a three-point Wayne Memorial lead and capture the championship of the 14th Annual Western Wayne Relays last Tuesday on a rain-soaked Belleville High School track.

It was the Chargers' first year in the Relays, and they responded by accumulating 39 points to squeeze by Wayne's 37. Livonia Bentley was third with 28.

Newcomer Churchill's win dethroned cross-town rival Franklin as champion, as the latter placed a distant eighth in the 10-team field.

WAYNE AND Churchill traded the lead throughout the meet's first eight events, and Wayne's victory in the two-mile relay gave the Zebras a 31-28 edge with three events remaining. Neither school was impressive in the ensuing 440 relay or long jump, so Wayne carried a 36-33 margin into the mile relay.

Churchill's Don Phillips subsequently outkicked the Zebras' Greg Hill on the first leg of the race and his teammates sped on to a 3:28.2 time and six first place points. Wayne, meanwhile, dropped to fifth in the race and watched its title hopes dissolve.

"I knew we could take first in the mile," said an exuberant Churchill coach, Fred Price. "We were just wondering where Wayne would place."

"OUR DEPTH really paid off for us. We had only two firsts, but got three seconds and three thirds. As a matter of fact, there was only one event we didn't place in." Churchill was disqualified in the high hurdle shuttle.

Churchill's championship came on the heels of another Relay meet where it owned a first-place tie, Saturday's Observerland Relays at Redford Union.

"I knew this meet was going to be close," assured Wayne Memorial's Bill Hawley. "We had a couple of boys hurt and out of the mile relay which was costly, but I don't want to make excuses. They (Churchill) just beat us. They're a fine team with a lot of depth and that's what beat us."

Wayne has become accustomed to the bridesmaid's role. The Zebras were also runner-up in 1972's meet and last won the title in 1969.

DEARBORN HEIGHTS Robichaud followed Bentley in team standings with 21 points, with Taylor Center just behind with 19. Westland John Glenn was sixth with 18 points, host Belleville seventh with 12 points and Inkster and Franklin tied for eighth with six points. Romulus brought up the rear with five.

Intermittent downpours virtually eliminated any chances for record-setting performances in the meet, run without the entries of Garden City West and East High and Cherry Hill. The three schools had scheduling conflicts and had to by-pass the Relays.

Churchill captured team firsts in the high jump and mile relay, and placed at least fourth in all four field events enroute to accepting the championship trophy.

Wayne won the shot put, pole vault, two-mile run and two-mile relay, but received no second place awards. The Zebras recorded three third place finishes.

THIRD PLACE Bentley won only the 440 relay while fourth place Robichaud stole the long jump and 880 relay. Taylor Center won the low hurdle shuttle relay. Inkster took the high hurdle shuttle relay and Belleville was victorious in the four-mile relay.

Individual trophy winners were: Darryl Gooden (Romulus) 55 feet, 2 1/2 inches in the shot put; Luke Ealey (Robichaud) 21'7 1/2" in the long jump; Phil Rodriguez (Taylor Center) 6'2" in high jump; Paul Denapoli (Franklin) 12'6" pole vault and Ray Nowak (Wayne) 9:52.5 in the two-mile run.

Churchill's meet-winning mile relay team included Don Phillips, Mark Prieb, Phil Damaska and Phil Kahn.

Track times improving

If "peaking" for the big meets is the name of the game in track, then local trackmen are reaching their objective. The area times and performances show improvement over the "frigid status quo" of a week ago.

High school track teams have their league meets and the state finals ahead of them and, when they're all over, then the All-Area meet.

If trackmen are going to produce, then this is the time.

Area coaches who wish to record times or results on the listing are urged to contact John Glenn assistant track coach Jerry Szukaitis at 728-4630.

Here are this week's top performances:

Spring vacation possibly cost New Boston Huron an opportunity to send two trackmen to this Saturday's state Class B track finals at Flint Northwestern.

Chief star Mike Sovodash enjoyed a relaxing spring trip to Florida, but returned in time to run three meets in four days — causing a disabling calf injury.

The injury consequently kept him out of competition at last Saturday's regional qualification meet at Livonia Clarenceville, where he had hoped to advance to the state meet in the high or low hurdles or high jump.

BUT HURON wasn't blanked at the meet. Senior Ed Fakhoury lived up to expectations by earning a trip to Flint with a 2:00.7 half mile.

"We just missed qualifying our mile relay team too," said Chief Coach Keith Reed. "It didn't run up to its capabilities, with a 3:35.5 clocking. Of course, it hurt not having Sovodash in there."

"It was a big blow losing Mike. I'm sure he could have qualified in the high and low hurdles and high jump. I hope he'll be ready for the league meet Wednesday, but I don't know," Reed said.

Melvin Sheets was sixth in the mile at 4:47.0, and Tim Bilerey 10th in the two-mile at 10:25.3 for Huron. Neither was fast enough to qualify but Bilerey trimmed 22 seconds off his previous best in the two mile.

THE CHIEFS host the eight other members of the Huron League this afternoon to determine the conference champion, and the favorite's role goes to Monroe Catholic Central, Reed says.

"The outlook isn't too good for us without Sovodash," Reed figures. "He would probably have given us first in the high and low hurdles and a second or third in the high jump."

TIGER TERROR — Junior outfielder Joe Stillwagon is making things interesting for Belleville High baseball coach Vit Kaminskas. Stillwagon has clouted four home runs so far this season for the Tigers which is more than any player has recorded in Kaminskas' 25 year stay at Belleville. He also leads the team in RBI's with 10.

Tigers make it rough on Redford Union

By DALE GOWING

Belleville High's baseball team will take its runs — and its wins — anyway it can get them.

The Tigers were rationed to two hits against Redford Union Monday in a game postponed from last Friday, but nevertheless won, 4-2, by cashing in on Redford Union miscues.

The Tigers assembled a four-run fifth inning on the strength of one hit batsman, two passed balls, two throwing errors and three walks — and not a single hit, as they backed into their seventh win of the season and third in the Suburban Eight Conference.

OVER-ALL, Belleville is 7-5, 3-5 in the league.

Tom Nippa was the unlucky loser, starving the Tiger bats on only two hits, one apiece to Mike Dansard and Robin Hook, as Redford Union fell from second place in the Suburban Eight.

Belleville's Jerry Cole tightened his pitching record at 2-3 while scattering six hits. He struck out 11 and walked just one.

Dave Dapsi started the Tigers' fifth inning odyssey by getting hit by a pitch. A strikeout followed then Cole walked. Hook walked and Dapsi scored on a wild pitch. Tim Vance was next safe on an error by Redford's shortstop, allowing Cole to score.

Then, in an attempt to pick off Vance trying to steal second, the throw instead set a trajectory for centerfield, allowing Belleville's third run to score.

AFTER DANSARD grounded out, Joe Stillwagon walked and Vance scored the Tigers' final run on an ensuing wild pitch.

Belleville's players could not talk too loudly about Redford's errors, though, because the Tigers committed five themselves.

"We must overcome that," insisted Coach Vit Kaminskas. "We have to tighten our infield and at the same time get our pitching up to par."

"Our pitching wasn't too bad against Redford Union, but it's not consistent," he said. "If we get the pitching we should be getting, we'll do the job."

Chiefs are out of slump

Or are they?

first Huron League win. Whitehouse himself contributed two triples to the cause while allowing only one Carlson hit.

Huron, 7-4 after the twin bill sweep, managed only four hits in the opener, as Ken Delano stretched his league mound record to 2-0, fanning 11. He's 2-1 over-all.

THE CHIEFS scored twice in the fourth on two walks, an error, a hit batsman and a two-run single by Whitehouse. Carlson knotted the score in the fifth, collecting three of its five hits in that inning.

Then, in the sixth Pearson walked, advanced to second on a passed ball and scored on Dana Kemp's single.

A late Carlson threat was erased when a runner was cut down at the plate on a delayed double-steal attempt with two outs.

HURON'S 10-0 Monday loss to first-place Flat Rock was an exercise in futility for Smith's troops. Pitcher Rob Eppler stifled the Chiefs while Jamie Hinojosa, Delano and Whitehouse were getting battered around on the mound for Huron. The three gave up 14 walks.

Mario Gracia spoiled Eppler's no-hit bid in the fifth inning with a liner to center. Loser Hinojosa, 3-4, was tagged for four runs in the first three innings and was mercifully removed for Delano and Whitehouse — who allowed six more.

Tennis regionals next

The Michigan High School Athletic Association shuffled its tennis deck and Romulus was dealt to the Ypsilanti regional tournament.

The 10-team regional will be staged on Saturday beginning at 10 a.m.

Romulus will meet representatives of the two Ann Arbor high schools — Pioneer and Huron; Wayne Memorial, John Glenn, Garden City East and West, Tempomance-Bedford and Howell.

The winners will advance to the state finals.

Women of the Moose

By SHIRLEY GARRY

Approximately 80 mothers and daughters attended our annual Mother and Daughter Banquet May 8, among whom three generations were represented in several families. Fran Melick, chairman, did a lovely job with decorations, prizes, and balloons for the kiddies. Three Bonanni sisters entertained the crowd with several selections on their accordions. We wish to thank the members of the Loyal Order who poured the coffee and did the clean up after.

Several of our Academy of Friendship members have been traveling to neighboring chapters, participating in the Ritual work for their Chapter Nights. They have been to Ann Arbor, Dearborn Heights, Ypsilanti, Wyandotte and Farmington. Invitations from Dearborn, Taylor, Detroit and Redford are on the agenda for the following week.

Like the race horse that breaks his leg before the big race, our Lila Wilson who is chairman for this month, broke a bone in her foot. With complications, she had to spend a week in the hospital. Knowing Lila, we are sure that she will handle her month O.K. anyway.

Several of our Co-workers, including the Sr. Regent, Elizabeth Willis, are traveling to Batavia this week-end with their husbands who are participating in the Moose Bowling Tournament.

Fish fries are still being served every Friday for members and their guests.

Building permits reported

The Van Buren Township Building Department issued 50 building permits during the month of April. Darryl Robson, chief building inspector, said.

The permits called for an estimated construction cost of $433,452. Building permits fees amounted to $1,719.

Residential building permits (38) accounted for $308,452 of the month's total construction costs.

There were 15 permits for the construction of one-family dwellings, two-family dwellings, one apartment, two townhouse units and three mobile home sites.

In addition there were 13 garages and carports approved in April. The total permits issued (including building) totaled 173 and total fees, $2,966.

The electrical division of the building department issued 61 permits and collected $918 in fees. The heating division issued 32 permits and collected $371 and the plumbing division issued 30 permits and collected $430.

EMU honors Belleville High senior

Cheryl Ann Schroeder, a senior at Belleville High School, was one of two high school seniors awarded a four-year Presidential Scholarship to Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, on a recent visit to the campus.

Cheryl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Schroeder of Studebaker Street, Ypsilanti.

Presidential Scholarship recipients must have a grade point average of 3.5-4.0. Cheryl has a 3.5 grade point average at Belleville High.

Von Stipdonk, director, Al Bessidis, director, and Lee Whalen, director. Missing from the photo, but elected to office for the coming year were Rich Szente, external vice president, and Ron Dick, director.

Poster contest slated

John M. Wahl chapter No. 87 of the Women's Relief Corps (WRC) is again sponsoring a Patriotic Poster Contest.

Deadline for the submission of patriotic posters by students of Belleville High and Romulus High schools is May 25. Prizes will be given to the winners of the contest.

For the last three years the contest was held at the Belleville High School. This year it will be held at the Romulus High School.

THE POSTERS will be judged upon thought, neatness and content of theme.

The judges will be four department officers and two local members of the corps. Judging will be in the first week of June.

The size of the poster is not a factor, large or small ones have been winners in the past contests. Belleville area students may leave their posters at the Belleville High School for pickup.

The prizes are: first prize an American silk flag with staff and stand; second prize, $5 and third prize, $5.

All posters remain the property of the WRC.

For further information persons may contact Mrs. Ruth Ann Knysz, president of chapter 87 at 941-1170 or contest chairman Mrs. June L. Blanton at 722-3877.

Special report goes to Ford stockholders

A special report, "Ford and Public Concerns," is being mailed this week to Ford Motor Company's 336,000 stockholders.

The booklet outlines the company's views and actions on 21 topics of current interest.

In an introductory letter, Henry Ford II, chairman of the board, and Lee A. Iacocca, president, point out that in recent years "Ford Motor Company has received a growing number of questions from stockholders, news media representatives, educators, students and church, consumer and other groups about its views and actions in areas of public concern."

"This report," they add, "attempts to answer briefly some of the most commonly asked questions about Ford's position on prominent issues of the day."

Topics discussed include 1975-76 emissions standards, alternate power sources, plant and water pollution, disposal of junked vehicles and solid waste, highway safety, air bags, experimental safety vehicle, damage resistance, cost of meeting Federal standards, product quality, customer service, no-fault insurance, mass transit, equal employment opportunity, employment of women, minority suppliers and dealers, occupational safety and health, working environment, community relations, international activities, and Ford of South Africa.

Saturday in front of Dancer's Department Store in downtown Belleville. The sale will begin at 9 a.m.

The benefit sale is being held for the benefit of the Elmer Rose family. Mrs. Marta Rose, 24, and her daughter, Tanya, 4 and her son, Clint E., 3, were killed in a truck-train crash early Sunday morning, May 6.

Members of the Girl Scout troop sponsored by the Haggerty Road Elementary School in Belleville area recently viewed a "life-saving program" by two members of the nursing staff of the Belvill Community Hospital 105 Main St., Belleville.

Mrs. Callee Long, R.N., and Mrs. Eva Foster, L.P.N., at the hospital visited the school. Both are certified in cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

The girl scouts were shown a film entitled "Pulse of Life" and a demonstration in the art of resuscitation.

The nurses used "Resusc Annie" (dummy) in demonstrating mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Afterwards the girl scouts were given an opportunity to practice the method of REACHES HIGHER RANK—Clyde Hulsey of Belleville recently was elevated to the 32nd Degree in the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry. Hulsey was honored as part of a class of 520 Masons from throughout southeastern Michigan who met May 5 at the Masonic Temple in Detroit.

Area students earn degrees

Three area persons were graduated at the spring commencement at University of Michigan-Dearborn.

They were Lowell G. Kessler, Jr., 30561 Redwood Lane, Romulus; bachelor of science in electrical engineering; Frederick Krenke, 9668 Hamilton St., Belleville, bachelor of science in electrical engineering; and John Padgett, 48182 Geddes Rd., Belleville, bachelor of science.

Institute offers bicycling tips

Bicycling — an increasingly popular sport — provides much enjoyment for youngsters and adults.

"But bicycling brings safety problems!" says the Institute for Safer Living.

Approximately 900 persons are likely to be killed this year in bicycle-automobile accidents, according to the National Safety Council. Such fatalities have risen steadily in recent years, from 490 in 1961 to 850 in 1971.

The institute estimates that more than one million bicycle-related injuries will occur this year.

More than 75 million people ride bicycles now, compared with 55 million in the late 1960s.

The institute urges adherence to these common sense safety precautions to help reduce bicycle accidents.

—Learn to ride well — practice in a safe area away from traffic.

—Choose the correct bicycle size.

Bicycles are intended for use on lightly-traveled roads.

—Bicycles are prohibited on many highways and expressways.

—Obey all traffic rules and regulations: at lights, stop signs, intersections, and one-way streets.

—Bicyclists must ride single file on roadways.

—Only one person on a bicycle (except tandems) — no riders.

—Bicyclists must not "hook" rides on other moving vehicles.

—Every bicycle must have a bell or horn and a brake or brakes in good condition.

—For after dark use, bicycles must have a reflector or red tail light that is visible from 500 feet.

—Always hand signal before turning.

Dems elect new officers

The Democratic Club of Sumpter Township has installed a new slate of officers who will serve and supervise club operations for the 1973-74 year.

Installation of officers, elected May 6 was held last week at the club headquarters, Sumpter and Willis roads, Sumpter Township.

The new officers are: Cecil Hall, president; Terry Williams, vice president; Mrs. Amanda Roberts, Mrs. Ladonna Demski, secretary; and Mrs. Janet Parraghi, corresponding secretary.

—Ride as closely to the right hand edge of the road as possible and always ride with the flow of traffic.

—Don't carry anything that would prevent at least one hand from being on the handlebars at all times.

—Leave stunt riding and racing for open areas free of traffic.

—In most communities, bicycles must be registered and display license plates. Keep a copy of the bicycle serial number at home.

'Les Riches' scheduled Saturday

Claude Chabrol's "Les Riches" will be shown at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, May 19, in the Rackham Auditorium, Woodward at Farnsworth, Detroit, as part of the University Center for Adult Education's series Famous Films of Famous Directors.

Made in 1968, the film shows repressed yearnings, violence and jealousies. Other films by Chabrol include Le Boucher, Les Femmes Infideles and The Champagne Murders.

Andrew Sarris in the "Village Voice" described it as "A thing of beauty...delirious, decadent but ultimately delightful to those with a taste for appearances as the purest language of the cinema."

General Admission is $1.50; UCAE students are free; other students with I.D. and senior citizens $1.

Are you looking for a good business opportunity? We are looking for business minded ladies who want an opportunity to own and operate their own business.
We are offering a new concept in the marketing of feminine hygiene type product. BEAU DAWN
Women are educated daily by millions of dollars in advertising spent to create a demand for products for this type. No selling, no overhead. No experience necessary. We completely establish business for you in minimum requires $3,225. For information call Mr. Jeddell at 261-2270 or write Business Opportunities of America, 15457
Middlebelt, Livonia, 48152

Care for your car. Then follow these signs. For safe summer driving.

These new "symbol" road signs are replacing the conventional "word" signs that we've been familiar with throughout our driving careers. It's important for every driver to quickly recognize each sign—and understand its meaning. Just as it's important for every driver to take his car in for regular car care maintenance. For maximum performance, safety and operating economy. With minimum harmful exhaust emissions.

Mr. Joseph Sesi, President
Sesi Lincoln-Mercury, Inc.
950 E. Michigan Avenue
Ypsilanti, Michigan 48197

Dear Mr. Sesi:

We have just received the national rankings on each dealer's sales of new Lincolns, Mercurys, and Capris for the calendar year 1972. It gives me great pleasure to inform you that Sesi Lincoln-Mercury sold 1742 new cars, and ranked among the top 20 of our dealers, nationwide. This is an outstanding sales job, and becomes of even greater significance when coupled with the fact that you also achieved 16.3% penetration of the total industry. As you so well know, this means that your dealership sold, roughly, three times as many Lincolns and Mercurys as the average dealer in a community the size of Ypsilanti.

This is a splendid showing, and both you, and your organization are to be complimented on the outstanding results you have achieved.

Professional automobile men immediately recognize the implications of the honor you have earned. It means you have been successful--not only in selling a volume of new cars, but have been successful, too, in the areas of used car sales, service rendered to your customers, and maintaining good customer relations. Well done!

Sincerely,

E. J. Cremins

Autos Keep America on the Move

By MITCHEL KEHETIAN
Editor

"New car sales set record," was the headline several weeks ago when the automotive industry released 1972 car sales reports.

What does it mean to the average citizen in Western Wayne County, and across the country? It means more jobs - and bigger paychecks for working Americans.

The automotive industry in this country often times takes a beating for clogging our highways, and allegedly causing pollution to the environment - yet the same industry which serves as the scapegoat has done more for America than any one single industry.

America is a nation on wheels, and so long as the automotive wheels continue to turn off the assembly lines and onto the roadways - America remains as the most wealthy society in the world.

These same automotive giants turned their plants into arsenals of democracy during World War II - instead of automobiles coming off their production lines; tanks, jeeps and other military related vehicles came off the lines.

In addition to building cars for America, the automotive giants devote millions of dollars into research for better auto safety and new effective ways to control auto emissions.

These same automotive giants pump millions of tax dollars into city hall and school treasures - and in addition they provide scholarship programs and cars for Driver Education programs in our schools.

When General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors run into difficult times - we all hurt.

And when members of the Congress place nearly impossible demands upon the auto industry, they tend to ignore the basic fact that this vital industry makes it possible for them to sit in Washington as representatives of the most powerful free enterprise nation in the world.

In this area the economy depends heavily on automotive sales and production - just take a ride through any of the major roadways; and you'll spot new and used car sales lots, auto supplies factories, and countless auto related business facilities - all contributing where it really helps ... jobs and taxes.

With the recreational vehicle boom sweeping across the country, we're witnessing a new product - and again, more jobs. The same can be said for marine products being made available - also by the automotive planners.

The special automotive section you receive with today's edition of this newspaper is indicative that the automotive industry is a real "Spark Plug" to our economy.

So if you're in the market for a new or used car, truck or maybe that recreational vehicle you'd like for this summer's vacation - support the dealers and businesses that express faith in this most vital industry in America.

The car you want might be a Ford, a Chrysler, Pontiac, a Plymouth, an American Motors Ambassador, a Dodge a Mustang, a Chevrolet, an Oldsmobile, a Mercury Cougar, or just one of the many lines being offered by the four automotive giants.

And for the small mode of transportation there's the Fiat and Honda.

At the same time, auto service attention is equally important. You might get the car you've always wanted, but even the best man-made machine needs service and attention.

And by supporting area service stations and automotive parts centers, Western Wayne County's economy will set the pace in the tri-county region.

The automotive industry deserves a salute for performing a vital role in keeping our economy second to none.

And the advertising and editorial staff of this newspaper thank all those merchants and businessmen who supported our endeavor to produce today's automotive special.

Safety valve

QUESTION: Is it legal for passengers to consume alcoholic beverages in a vehicle going down the highway? W.A.L., Algonac

ANSWER: No. No alcoholic liquor shall be consumed on the public highway.

QUESTION: My farmer friend is real proper with his slow moving vehicle emblem on the back of his farm equipment, but that's no excuse for those dim headlights? R.O.B., West Branch ANSWER: There is a special provision in our vehicle lighting equipment requirements for slow-moving vehicle which allows them to be operated (during specified hours of darkness) when equipped with two lighted lamps on the front capable of revealing persons and objects 75 feet ahead. Provided, however, that at no time shall that vehicle be operated at a speed in excess of 20 miles per hour.

QUESTION: My boy friends new motor vehicle operator license doesn't even include information on his height and sex any more. His long hair and big steel rimmed glasses hide enough of his face he could almost pass for a girl! Does a police officer who stops him on the highway have any way to determine for sure what gender he really is? - L.R.S., Stephenson

ANSWER: Although the new law effective January 9, 1973, erases that physical description information from the license itself, the Secretary of State advises us that physical description will still be required on the license application and that this information will be available to all police officers on the law enforcement information network.

QUESTION: Does the law require people operating emergency vehicles on an emergency run to carry an operator's license with them? J.W., Bridgeport.

ANSWER: "Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, any fireman while responding to or returning from a fire alarm or while actually engaged in fighting a fire shall be exempt from carrying on his person any certificate, license or any paper or writing required by law to be on his person or presented upon demand of a peace officer."

U.S. Government Has Car Care Information

A number of booklets on car care and safety are available from the United States government. Among the publications available are:

Automobile batteries, their selection and care (40 cents)

Automotive fuels and air pollution (40 cents)

Maximum safe speed for motor vehicles ($1)

Motorcycles in the United States (10 cents)

Principles of automotive vehicles ($3.25)

Tires, their selection and care (65 cents)

The publications are available to Canadians as well as most Western Hemisphere residents at no additional postage cost. For order blanks and full details write Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

DID YOU KNOW?

Carbon on the distributor points can lead not only to spark plug misfiring but in some cases can cause complete ignition failure.

Don't Pass Up Free Service

Maybe the best things in life aren't really free, but if you pass up those free services offered by service outlets, it may cost you.

Take the simple precaution of checking battery water levels. It requires only a few seconds of time and absolutely no money. But if battery fluid levels are allowed to drop and the condition is not detected, it could mean premature deterioration of the battery. It could cause an inconvenient "can't start" as well.

During hot, dry periods of summer, battery water is more likely to evaporate. So, especially during warm weather months, have the battery checked every time you stop for gas.

In addition to water levels, have the battery checked for corrosion and soundness of the cables.

Another free service that can save you money is checking the tires for proper inflation. Both underinflation and overinflation can be harmful to tires, wearing them out prematurely. For accurate readings, do not have the tires checked after you've driven more than a few miles.

Other free checks that will help prevent trouble include inspection of oil level and windshield washer fluid. Low levels of oil can lead to engine damage and no fluid in the washer reservoir could hamper visibility at a critical time.

Competency Examinations Help Mechanics Earn Certification

If a car with an automatic transmission starts in all selector positions, what is the cause of the malfunction? What must be done to correct disc brakes that are overly sensitive to light pedal pressure?

In 165 cities throughout the country late this fall, mechanics will be answering similar questions contained in a four-part series of tests. Successful completion of the battery will demonstrate that an individual has the necessary competence and skills to be certified as a General Automobile Mechanic.

The voluntary mechanic certification program is the first project of the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence. Headquartered in Washington, D.C., the independent, non-profit body was organized by concerned segments of the vehicle service industry to improve the quality of automobile repairs through testing and projects.

7. When the breaker points in an ignition system are badly pitted, what is the first part that should be checked for possible malfunction?

(A) Coil (B) Distributor cap
(C) Ignition switch (D) Distributor condenser

8. Which of the following instruments would a mechanic be most likely to use in performing an exhaust restriction test?

(A) A combustion efficiency tester (B) An air-flow meter
(C) A leakage tester (D) A vacuum gauge

Cyl # ____ Cyl # ____ Cyl # ____ Cyl # ____

9. Which of the following troubles is indicated in the scope pattern shown above?

(A) Excessive rotor to cap clearance
(B) Excessive secondary resistance
(C) Oil fouled spark plug
(D) Ignition point bounce

10. If the accelerator-pump inlet check ball is accidentally left out of a carburetor, which of the following is the most likely result?

Here reproduced from one of the Institute for Automotive Service Excellence manuals are some of the types of questions those who will be taking the tests must cope with in earning certification as a General Automobile Mechanic.

Seven Points Cited as Way To Cope with Brake Trouble

Powered or unpowered, drum or disc, your car's brakes are one of the simplest systems in your car and one of the most critical to your safety. So an understanding of the following seven common points of failure is vital, says the Canadian Safety Council.

1. Fade is one of the most common problems.

Although cheap or defective linings, fluid or drums may be at fault, the usual cause of fade is simply overheating from severe service. Three things can happen, any of which can cause partial or total brake failure. If two or three happen simultaneously, you have very little hope of stopping your car.

FIRST, excessive heat can temporarily weaken the drum and cause it to distort from the pressure of the shoes inside it. This may allow excessive movement of the shoes and cause the pedal to go all the way to the floor.

SECOND, heat may cause the brake fluid to boil and become compressible; this would also allow the pedal to go to the floor.

FINALLY and most commonly, heat glazes the lining, giving it an almost liquid coating that acts as a lubricant, preventing the buildup of friction necessary to stop the car.

In a minor case, all the cure that's needed is time—15 to 30 minutes at the most—to allow the brake parts to cool. When they do, they will operate normally if they have not been damaged by excessive heat. The trick is to recognize the onset of brake fade and get the car stopped before it gets worse.

2. When the brakes don't take hold until the pedal almost touches the floor, this is known as excessive pedal travel and is a serious problem.

If not corrected, it will lead to a total brake failure.

A simple adjustment may cure the problem, but a complete system check is called for because there may be a leak or other critical hydraulic defect. If the pedal goes all the way to the floor, do not attempt to drive; have your car towed to a repair shop.

3. Spongy pedal is usually caused by air getting into the hydraulic system when the fluid level is low.

Correction may require only a simple "bleeding" job that usually costs a few dollars for an hour's labor. But there could also be a serious mechanical failure; get a thorough inspection.

4. Wheel pull or failure of the car to stop in a straight line can result from a defective brake or simple maladjustment.

It can also be caused by excessive wear somewhere in the steering system or an oil leak from an axle.

But don't treat it as an annoyance; it will probably get worse—perhaps suddenly—and it could easily cause you to lose control of your car. Have it looked at right away.

5. Squeal sometimes comes from certain brands of extra-hard brake linings.

It's annoying, but not necessarily a danger sign. On the other hand, the noise may result from a mechanical malfunction or worn lining.

Excessive or sudden new brake squeal calls for a checkup.

6. Drag may be caused by many things, but the scraping sound is a sure sign that something is wrong.

To neglect dragging brakes (partly engaged) will not only allow them to ruin themselves but will inevitably lead to a total failure.

7. Pulsation or chatter, a vibrating sensation you may feel at the pedal or notice at the wheel, comes from a loose support plate or from a broken or out-of-round drum.

It is usually a minor problem to correct but it needs immediate attention.

Keep this in mind about brakes: when defective they never get better of their own accord; they only get worse. And when a defect shows up, total failure may be only seconds away.

AUTO FACTS

Cleaner Engines Call For Better Cooling

In designing anti-emission systems to help reduce air pollution, car manufacturers are installing hotter-running engines in today's vehicles. Therefore, it has become even more critical that cooling systems be in top condition to handle the higher engine temperatures.

This means that the cooling system should be checked twice a year for the following:

Leak-free radiator; soundness of all hoses and connections; properly operating thermostat; radiator cap is sealing efficiently; water pump is working; and coolant levels are normal.

Proper mixture of coolant, for both summer and winter operation, is about 50 per cent ethylene glycol-type anti-freeze and 50 per cent water. This so-called permanent-type anti-freeze should be replaced every two years or 30,000 miles, whichever comes first.

Some Motor Accidents Traced to Missed Meal

Abnormally low blood-sugar levels, induced by missed meals, may be a direct cause of accidents.

This is the view of Miss M. S. Christian, Head of the Accident and Emergency Department at Wexham Park Hospital, Slough, England. In accident studies she found that several truck drivers who crashed for no apparent reason had extremely low blood-sugar levels.

In three cases, the drivers were either confused, faint or ill but each recovered after a shot of intravenous glucose and a meal. None of them was diabetic and all were young and healthy. The common factor was that each driver had at least 12 hours' starvation.

This new danger was discovered by Miss Christian during a survey she is undertaking of the "unknown factors" in road accidents.

The survey, which will also look into the effects of such factors as tranquilizers and diabetes, includes a question to establish the relationship between the time of the accident and the last meal.

Symptoms associated with low blood-sugar are weakness, drowsiness, dizziness, mental confusion, double vision, aggression and other abnormal behavior. Because symptoms can show at levels not much lower than those after the normal 12 hour overnight fast, anyone undertaking a long journey should not skip a meal.

Truck drivers who make early starts without breakfasts are obviously at risk but so may be people on slimming diets. Just how widespread the problem is is not known, but clearly should be a matter of concern.

How to Assure a Joyful Vacation

Is your car in shape for the strenuous schedule of summer travel you have planned? Or, like too many in this country, is it a candidate for an exasperating, expensive and possibly dangerous breakdown?

It's a lamentable fact that too many motorists will expect a thoroughbred's performance from a car that is, in fact, more like a candidate for the Swayback Derby.

Study after study shows that in critical safety and performance areas, the average car is not equipped to handle the long, hard driving most vacation trips require.

Why is this so? Why do John and Jane Owner allow their cars to deteriorate?

Champion Spark Plug Company recently conducted a survey which sought to determine the reasons for tune-up neglect. While the survey concentrated on tune-up, it is probable that the rationalizations given for not buying needed tune-up apply to other maintenance musts as well.

The major reasons cited were:

My car is running fine just the way it is.

I don't have time.

I don't have the money.

As plausible as these reasons may have seemed to the motorists, they often defy either fact or logic (or both).

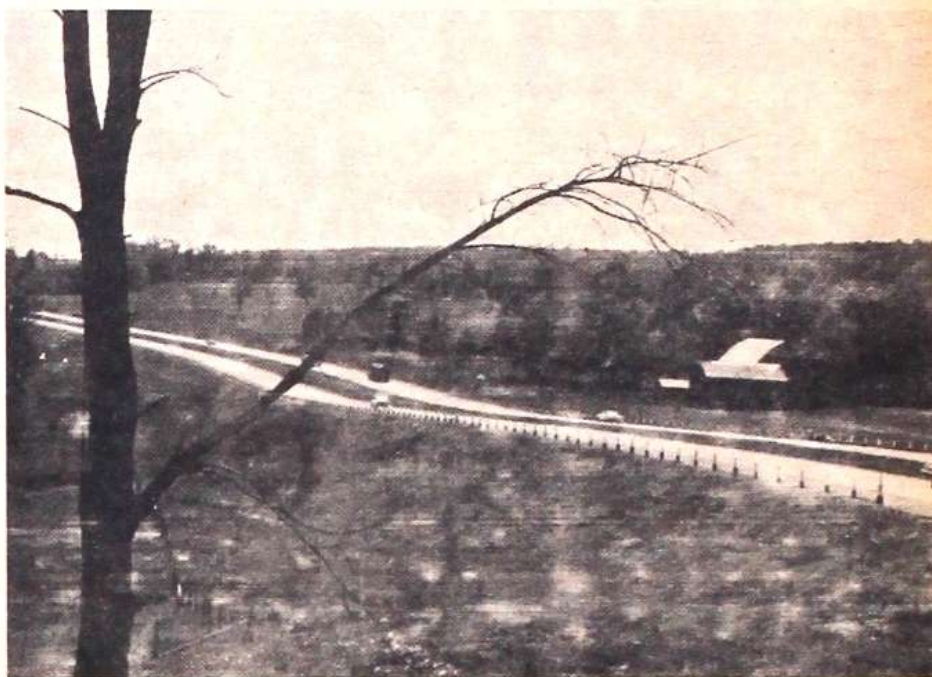

Are most cars running fine just the way they are? Not according to compulsory vehicle check lanes or private diagnostic clinics.

More than half the cars inspected at these facilities show dangerous safety and operational defects, many of them unknown to the car owner.

Certainly, most people live busy, active lives. But a busy person soon learns that to accomplish what he must, he has to schedule activities.

It may be inconvenient to bring a car in for service but it's even more inconvenient to ruin a vacation trip by having an undermaintained car break down in a strange location.

Few of us have all the money we need. But a few dollars spent on preventive maintenance can save a lot of dollars

A scenic highway is a great place to enjoy life on a vacation trip. When a car is purring along the open road, the cares of the shop and the office seem as remote as the moon. That's why the smart car owner will make sure his vehicle is in shape for the trip — to keep those troubles remote. For, somehow, a beautiful stretch of highway can become a nightmare if your car is disabled along the shoulder. Care for Your Car to make sure every mile you travel is a joyous one.

spent on corrective maintenance. A squirt of lubricant often can forestall the breakdown of an expensive part.

Certainly, there are reasons and excuses for everything. But you've invested too much money in your car to allow it to deteriorate. And you'll be investing too much hard-earned time and money on your vacation to let it be spoiled by a malfunctioning car.

Bring your car in for a pre-vacation check at your favorite service outlet and really enjoy your summer driving.

HERE'S YOUR TICKET TO CAREFREE MOTORING

Perhaps one definition of a young old-timer is someone who recalls those long railroad passenger tickets. On a cross-country trip, a ticket could be several feet in length, with each coupon representing one stop on the journey. Since the automobile now carries about 85 percent of all vacation travelers, it might be a good idea to resurrect the old train ticket to remind the motorist of vital services. Each portion of the "Carefree Car Vacation" ticket above describes a service that will help keep your car in top condition during your vacation. Car Care Council suggests that you use it as a reminder when getting these services performed at your favorite service facility. In that way you'll be sure that you're on the right track every mile you're on the road.

Tune-Ups Most Vital in Coping with Pollution

If you're adept at creating HC, CO and NOx, you may get a good grade in a chemistry class. But you'll be flunking in a more important area, helping protect the nation's environment.

The three chemical designations are the elements of the harmful emissions that are byproducts of fuels that power automobile engines. They are part of the air pollution problem.

HC (or hydrocarbons) is a scientific designation for fuel. The amount of fuel that is unburned and enters the atmosphere through exhaust or vaporization is one element that, when exposed to sunlight, creates smog.

Invisible Gas

Another smog-creating byproduct of combustion is NOx (nitrogen oxide). CO (carbon monoxide) does not create smog but enters the atmosphere as an odorless, tasteless and invisible gas. In enclosed areas, such as the interior of a car, CO can be lethal.

If automotive fuel were burned to 100 per cent efficiency, the byproducts would be H₂O and CO₂. H₂O is water and CO₂ is carbon dioxide, both harmless to the atmosphere.

Fortunately, all signs point to the near-future time when the automobile will no longer be a significant part of the air pollution problem. One indication of this trend is that today, more than 85 per cent of automobile-caused pollution comes from cars built before 1968.

In fact cars built today create only 10% of the pollutants as did cars manufactured in the early 1960's.

As the older cars are scrapped, the pollution picture in this country is brightening significantly. And as devices such as after-burners or catalytic converters are introduced in a few years, cars will be virtually pollution-free, according to the car manufacturers.

Maintenance Needed

Despite all the efforts and money invested by the car makers, the fight against air pollution will not be totally successful unless the car owner adheres to a schedule of maintenance.

The service most vitally affecting emissions is tune-up.

According to tests conducted by the University of Michigan and the State of New Jersey, a tuned engine produces about 50 per cent fewer pollutants than the same engine in need of tune-up (at idle).

National Check Your Vehicle Emissions Month in April was established in the U.S.A. to remind motorists that engines in good condition do not pollute excessively. Many service facilities like this one offered clean engine checks to help combat air pollution. Mechanics perform a 15-minute check of vital engine components to see whether the car is a polluter or not.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR SAFE DRIVING

When an engine misses as the car is accelerated but runs fine at light load or idle, the probable reason is that a worn plug may misfire because of increased compression pressure at heavy load.

When cleaning your windshield, don't force the wiper blades aside. Some of the late model electrically driven wipers can be permanently damaged by forcing them to another position.

Some ignition problems don't show themselves except in wet weather. That's when cracked insulation is most likely to fail. Avoid trouble by having boots and cables inspected when you buy new spark plugs.

If you should be adding water to your car's battery, be careful not to overfill. Spilled acid will attack metal hold-downs, cables and other parts adjacent to the battery.

Three Nations Test Reveals How

Changing Spark Plugs Can Save You Gas

Getting better gasoline mileage always has been an attractive proposition to the motorist. Who could argue with the proposition that when gasoline consumption goes down, the bank balance edges up?

Today being stingy with gasoline is more than a matter of dollars and cents. The same factors that affect gas economy also have a strong bearing on reducing exhaust emissions. And there's still another compelling reason to be concerned with gasoline conservation. The world is faced with an impending shortage of petroleum, the source of gasoline.

Key to Saving

According to David L. Walker, Champion Spark Plug Company automotive technical services director, engine condition is the key to gasoline consumption.

Walker, speaking to a group of technicians at Champion's new West Coast Technical Center in Santa Ana, California, reported that untuned engines are wasters of fuel.

He cited results of a three-nation Champion test program that showed an untuned engine (one that hasn't been tuned in more than 10,000 miles of operation) wastes between one and two gallons of gasoline per tankful. Merely replacing worn spark plugs with new ones can save better than a gallon per tankful the tests revealed.

Habits Have Bearing

Driving habits also have a bearing on good gasoline mileage, Walker said.

- Excessive speed is a no-

David L. Walker, director of automotive technical services, Champion Spark Plug Company, tells a group of automotive technicians about the gasoline savings that result from a tuned engine. The students at Champion's new West Coast Technical Services Center in Santa Ana, California, were reminded that a tuned engine saves from one to two gallons per tankful, thereby reducing air pollution and helping to preserve the world's petroleum resources.

torious waster of fuel. Keeping within the posted speed limits will help save gasoline, not to mention reducing accident dangers.

- Keeping a light and steady foot on the gas pedal is also a fuel saver. Jack rabbit starts and sudden acceleration while driving require excessive fuel.

- Stay mentally ahead of traffic, "playing" traffic lights and avoiding situations such as tail-gating other cars. Sudden stopping and starting are major causes of wasted gasoline.

- Avoid prolonged idling. If you must wait in your car for more than a few seconds, such as at a railroad crossing or for someone to come out of a store, it's more economical to shut off the engine. It also helps cut down on pollution.

- Make sure your tire pressure is proper. Under-inflated tires, particularly, hurt gas economy.

Correct Use and Care of . . .

Automatic Transmissions Make Driving Easy and Pleasurable

By JODY CARR

Other than the self starter, probably nothing has contributed more to driving pleasure than the automatic transmission. As trouble free as this complicated mechanism is, it is not indestructible. There are a few things which can shorten its life.

For example: a driver stalls his car at a traffic light, finally gets it running again and, with engine roaring, moves his shift lever to "D". Or on a steep upgrade, he is waiting for a red light to turn green. He uses the gas pedal instead of the brake, allowing the engine to hold him in position. If cars could talk, his would cry!

These are two of the most common abuses to which automatic transmissions are subjected. But there are more.

Have you ever seen someone park by giving the car ahead (or behind) a good solid nudge to make extra space? If the nudged car is in "park," a little gadget inside the transmission can be broken. This happened more than once.

Use your parking brake instead of "park" whenever there is a possibility of being bumped or pushed by another car.

While we're on the subject of "park," NEVER move your shift lever to "park" while the car is in motion. This can have the same unfortunate result as being bumped.

Some drivers manage to put their cars in reverse while they are going forward. Although the automatic transmission has a special locking device to prevent this from happening, who knows if the device is working?

The jar when a wheel suddenly contacts dry surface after spinning fast on ice can be disastrous to a transmission. So can extended periods of pushing or being pushed.

Treat your automatic transmission with respect and the care recommended in your owner's manual, and it will keep shifting for you for years and years.

Abuse it, and you may be faced with a whopping repair bill.

RFI 'Ear' Pollution Ills Becoming Thing of Past; Resistor Plugs are Help

There's air pollution and there's ear pollution.

Both conditions are in part attributable to the automobile. While curing air pollution, caused by excessive harmful emissions, is being brought under control, it still remains an environmental problem.

Fortunately ear pollution in the form of radio signal interference has been eliminated and will not be a problem if proper maintenance is practiced.

According to Champion Spark Plug Company, two major developments have controlled radio interference (RFI). In the past, noise from the automotive ignition system has interfered with radio signals. As a result, radio and television reception in cars and in the home have been interrupted by electrical interference emanating from passing vehicles (much in the way a vacuum cleaner in operation will distort radio and TV reception in the same room).

With the development of resistor-type ignition cables and resistor spark plugs, RFI is virtually eliminated. Cars manufactured today come equipped with the resistor cables. In most new cars, resistor-type spark plugs also are original equipment.

When replacing resistor cables and resistor-type spark plugs, make certain your service man uses RFI-suppressing replacement components. Cables should be replaced, according to one manufacturer, at about 38,000 miles or when cracked or otherwise damaged. Plugs should be replaced at 10,000 miles as part of a tune-up.

That way, you'll be doing your share to make RFI ear pollution a thing of the past.

TURNPIKES & FREEWAYS: Finally, a tip that will destroy one of the oldest and most harmful myths about tire wear.

Ask almost any driver how he should prep his tires before doing any prolonged high-speed driving and he'll tell you to take out some air. And he'd be wrong. You're supposed to add air — about 4 psi over normal, in fact.

Computer Helping Design Safer Highways

Ontario's highways are some of the most closely watched roads in the world. Since 1945, the province has built up an accident reporting system that gives Ministry of Transportation and Communications personnel an accurate picture of the accident rate and traffic volume for every 500 feet of the 13,000 miles of highway in the province.

One of the originators of the program, Tom Mahony, MTC's Administrator of Transportation Safety, worked closely with the Ontario Provincial Police to set up a key point system in 1947.

"The province is divided into 17 O.P.P. districts and we related our system to this division," he explains. "In each district we agreed to designate well-known points such as junctions of highways, district boundaries, or county lines as reference or key points.

"We also established the mileage between these points.

Accidents Noted

"If an accident occurred at one of these points or near them, the investigating officer was asked to note this on the collision report.

"Eventually, the key points were situated every 500 feet or 1 10th of a mile on the highway, and we gradually got a very detailed picture of what was happening on the road."

Mahony further explained that this knowledge greatly assisted highway engineers in the planning and design of highways. In addition, Traffic Engineers gain precise knowledge of the effect of lane markings or other physical aspects of the road on drivers.

When the system was first set up, copies of the accident report were sent to Mahony and processed by the former Department of Highways. Inevitably however, the computer began to play a large role in the program.

Paul de Valence, Computer Services Project Engineer, explained that in early 1968, accident data was fed into the computer.

"At that time," he said, "we were using the old collision report form and since it was not designed for use by a computer, we set about codifying all the data. Of course, the O.P.P., local police, and at that time, the Department of Transport were also doing the same thing."

One year ago, all police forces in Ontario began to Wheels of computer tape help solve the problems of wheels on the highway at Ontario's Ministry of Transportation and Communications' transportation safety center. The tapes store information on the rate of accidents and traffic volume for every 500 feet of the 13,000 miles of highway in the province. Thus any factors of highway design that affect safety can be determined and corrected. (Ontario Traffic Safety photo.)

use a new collision report form. Says de Valence, "This form has taken us one step closer to complete automation, which will no doubt come within five years and is a tremendous achievement when you consider we have to process approximately 150,000 collision reports annually."

But does this vast information gathering network affect the final design of highways?

"It certainly does," says Mahony. Out of all the data comes a book called Traffic Volumes and Collision Rates. "We watch the collision rates rather closely and if a particular stretch of road starts to record a collision rate higher than the provincial average, we identify it as a problem area and try to find out what's wrong.

"We base our collision rate on the number of accidents occurring per million vehicle miles of travel. The fatality or death rates, however, are based on 100 million vehicle miles of travel."

Mahony says that the difference in the method of computing collision and death rates is simply the result of a policy decision to follow the system set out by the U.S. National Safety Council. "The resulting figures are easier to handle and compare to U.S. figures," he says.

Liaison Important

Personal liaison with the O.P.P. officers in the province is important. Mahony, accompanied by Ministry of Transportation and Communications engineers, meets with O.P.P. officers on a regular annual basis to discuss traffic problems and methods of resolving these conflicts.

There are 186 O.P.P. detachments in 17 districts around the province and representatives from each detachment attend district meetings. Says Mahony, "We follow up on all their complaints, suggestions and observations. Their comments in many instances enable us to carry out studies of potential accident locations."

First-Hand View

Mahony augments his impression of the statistics with his own first-hand experience by travelling 15,000 miles a year to collision scenes and trouble spots.

According to Mahony, to a certain extent, the re-design of Highway 400 between Toronto and Barrie and Highway 11 north of Barrie, the re-design of Queen Elizabeth Way and the construction of highway 417 to replace highway 17 east of Ottawa are dramatic examples of collision statistics affecting high level policy decisions.

WIPE OUT NOISE

If you have car radio interference when your electric windshield wipers are on, check your wiring. Improperly-grounded two-speed wipers can cause the trouble.

Mysteries of Single-Car Accidents May be Traced To Worn Out Shocks

One of the fastest growing and most mysterious fatal accident statistics is the single car accident. It results when, for some undetermined reason, a car leaves the road and strikes a fixed object.

Since victims of the single car accident cannot explain what happened, causes of the tragedy are difficult to determine.

According to some traffic experts, a possible reason for at least some of the single car fatalities could be worn shock absorbers. When shocks are worn, a panic stop, possibly caused by an animal darting onto the roadway, could result in the car's front wheels lifting off the road's surface. This action could result in loss of control by the driver.

Also, when shocks are defective, taking a curve at high speeds could mean loss of control.

The average effective life of shock absorbers is about two years or 24,000 miles of driving. Beyond that point, shocks generally lose effectiveness and pose a safety hazard.

Therefore, the motorist is advised to have the condition of the shocks checked routinely when the car is on the hoist for an oil change, lube job, wheel alignment or similar service.

Motorists are also advised to match up the replacement shocks with the type of driving they do. In over-the-road driving with normal loads, regular shocks generally suffice. However, with frequent driving over rough roads and at high speeds, a heavy duty shock may be needed. Motorists who frequently haul trailers or other heavy loads may need load leveler stabilizing units.

If front-end sag due to worn springs is evident, front end stabilizing units are recommended.

Signs of worn shock absorbers include a bobbing of the car after a stop, rough riding characteristics and instability on curves.

Thousands Flock to Classrooms Even into Grease Pits to Learn More about Family Car

If a recent survey by the Automotive Information Council is any indication, the day may be coming when the lady of the house knows as much about what makes the family car tick as her husband does.

The AIC survey shows that thousands of women across the country are flocking to the classroom and even the grease pit.

They're donning coveralls (at least in some classrooms, where they are provided free) and taking a cool, calculating look at that erstwhile mystery, the family car.

Finding Out What Makes It Go

They're finding out what makes it go, what illnesses it may be subject to, how some of these can be avoided, what to do if repairs have to be made, how to handle emergency situations and how to keep the family chariot in safe operating condition.

The classes, which may run from a single day-long session to once-a-week courses of several weeks, are being sponsored as a consumer service by an increasingly broad Putting the car up the hoist at women's automotive class in Rock Island, Ill., conducted jointly by the YWCA and a leading manufacturer of auto testing and service equipment. The class is one of hundreds offered to women to help them understand how to maintain a car for safety and trouble-free performance.

A Good Place

TO SERVICE YOUR CAR—

Currently, 28 per cent of U.S. families own two or more cars and the routine maintenance of these automobiles is being looked after increasingly by the woman of the house. The American Petroleum Institute suggests that the same care be given to selecting the right service dealer as is given to choosing the family doctor, dentist, or attorney.

How do you find the right service outlet where you are confident your car is in competent hands? API has these suggestions:

- Ask your friends, to find out which place they patronize.

- Shop around before you have to call for serious help. Drive in sometime when the outlet is not too busy. Have something definite in mind to have done to your car, something that can be done while you wait. Observe the manner in which the work is being done, the caliber of the manager and attendants, and ask some questions. If the place is a busy one, you may have to make an appointment, but a busy facility is usually an efficient one.

- See if the attendant uses test equipment. Since automobiles run on a series of chain reactions, test equipment will help check all the links of the chain, protect you from unnecessary expense and help you get better overall performance from your car.

- Appearance is another thing to consider. A sloppy shop may be a sign of inefficiency.

All the test equipment in the world can't do much good if it's kept in the back of the shop covered with old rags. This is a good indication that the equipment is seldom used, and probably won't be used on your car either.

- Notice displays of accessories and tires. A neat and adequate supply is a good sign that the part or product you may need will be available when you need it.

- If the atmosphere smacks of bargains, beware! Sales are one thing, bargains another. Cut-rate brake jobs and such are dubious at best. A good serviceman knows what has to be done, and he knows how much he must charge to cover his cost of doing it right.

- Finally, don't go in with the notion that a man who wants to check this, that, and the other, without being asked, is a sharp salesman. Checking and servicing your car is his business, and a part of this service is to call to your attention problems you may not have noticed—a bald tire, a leaking radiator hose, a loose fan belt—any of which, if neglected, can cause trouble, even danger for you.

You have the option of buying or not buying what your serviceman recommends, but at least you'll know what lies ahead. Preventive maintenance—or servicing your car properly before serious trouble strikes—saves money in the long run, not to mention time and aggravation.

spectrum of the automotive industry, ranging from small independent repair shops to major car manufacturers, from franchised dealers to manufacturers of auto testing equipment and parts.

Surprisingly, though some are sponsored nationally by manufacturers and industry groups, many seem to have sprung up independently in response to the needs of women drivers.

Goal Is Same

Though formats and sponsorships vary, the courses all have the same goal: to aid the woman motorist in understanding her car—not necessarily to make her an expert mechanic, but to enable her to handle minor problems and to deal confidently and decisively with service technicians when their help is needed.

Almost all of the courses

Rotary Engines Still Require Maintenance

Some experts say the Wankel (rotary) engine is the automotive power source of the future. Other equally qualified authorities maintain that the present-day piston engine, although modified, will be with us for an indefinite period.

No matter who is correct, two facts are beyond dispute. The rotary engine is already an on-the-road reality. And this rotary engine, despite its simplified design, will continue to require regularly scheduled maintenance.

However, as different as the rotary engine is, there are still familiar basic maintenance needs. The rotary engine uses a conventional ignition system. So periodic tune-up is as important to the Wankel-type engine as it is to the piston engine.

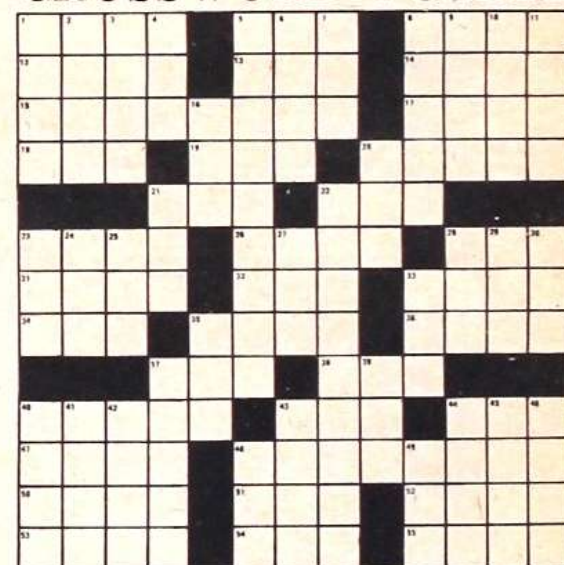

The Mazda version of the rotary employs two rotors (combustion chambers) and each rotor uses two spark plugs, or four per engine. These plugs fire three times in each engine revolution and the combustion chamber environment in which they perform is much more demanding than in a conventional engine. As a result, service or replacement is recommended at 4,000 miles.

Since two plugs are used per rotor, two separate distributors are needed to fire the plugs in proper sequence. In other respects the Mazda ignition system is normal. Therefore, when tuning the engine, attention should be paid to:

- Cleaning, regapping or replacing spark plugs
- Compression check
- Carburetor check
- Idle and timing settings
- Condition of distributor components
- Spark plug wiring
- Air, oil and fuel filters
- Battery and electrical system who DRIVE... and MEN, Too...

from DeDe BENSON... a woman who does

Dear DeDe:

My husband is a commercial pilot and understandably is very finicky about the condition of his plane. But what drives me batty is that he is also a dingbat when it comes to our car. We are always late wherever we go because Bob insists on performing what he calls a "pre-flight check" before he gets into the car. He checks the tires, the wipers, the oil and water and a dozen other items before he'll even move out of the driveway. I'm all for safety but don't you think he's carrying this thing too far?

Mrs. R.W.
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Mrs. R.W.:

Perhaps your husband is carrying things too far. But, if he is, at least he's on the side of the angels. (A good place for a pilot to be.) Too many motorists pay no attention to fundamentals like proper tire pressure, oil levels, good wipers and other basics necessary for trouble-free performance. At best, neglect can lead to premature deterioration of the car. At worst, carelessness can lead to a serious accident. Bear with your husband's carefulness. He wants to fly now and drive later in a safe manner.

Dear DeDe:

Will you please help me out of a tight spot at home? I just met Jeff and he's the kind of guy I could get serious over. There's only one trouble. Jeff has his heart set on being a race driver. When my parents heard that, they blew their stacks and forbade me to see Jeff again. Now, I've driven with Jeff a number of times and he's a lot safer driver than some of the boys my parents approve of. How can I convince my parents to let me go out with Jeff?

WRONG TRACK WINNIE
Mobile, Alabama

Dear Winnie:

You are right in one respect. Successful race drivers are the safest drivers in the world. They must adhere to the rules of the road and have their cars in the best possible condition to be successful. Why not arrange for a double date with your parents with Jeff driving. Once they see he's a better bet at the steering wheel than the average driver, you two may reach the winner's circle together.

Dear DeDe:

We are a young couple on a tight budget. One high but important item on that

SEE AND BE SEEN!

Among the most common reasons for rejection at vehicle inspection stations throughout the country are items affecting visibility. In some areas as high as a 50 percent rejection rate occurs on items such as lights and windshield wiper and washer systems.

Experts say that headlight aiming should be checked several times a year. Wiper blades should be replaced every six months.

budget is car expenses. Can you give us some tips on how to keep that budget under control?

CLAUDE AND JEANNE
Montreal, P.Q.

Dear C and J:

One way not to save is to scribble on preventive maintenance. That dollar you didn't spend could end up costing you five. For instance, there's no surer way to cause premature engine wear than to skip recommended oil and filter changes. Neglecting tune-up is going to cost you money in excessive gasoline bills, charges for road service when your car won't start and possible engine damage. Not checking the air in your tires, having tires improperly balanced could wear out a set of tires 25 percent prematurely. So, to avoid paying those whopping repair bills that shatter budgets, earmark some money for preventive maintenance. It pays off in the long run.

DID YOU KNOW?

Did you know that if you drive a car an average of 10,000 miles per year its spark plugs have probably fired some 15 million times during that period? That's why they should be serviced at 5,000 miles and replaced at 10,000 miles.

LOTS OF AIR

An average automobile engine uses about 9,000 gallons of air for every gallon of gasoline. Have your air cleaner serviced regularly for top performance.

CAR CARE QUIZ THE NUMBERS GAME

1 2 5 8 1 4 3

If you are the typical driver, you'll put considerably more mileage on your car during spring and summer than you do in the cold weather months. That means your odometer will be spinning a lot faster. If your odometer could talk as well as spin, it might be the best car care adviser you've ever had. Why?

The mileage recorded on the odometer is often an indication of when to have vital maintenance performed.

This quiz links mileage with suggested service intervals. So, see how well you can listen to your silent odometer.

Time to Summerize Recreational Vehicles

Removal of All Signs of Winter Recommended as First Step To Roadworthy Operation

"Before making extensive summer use of a recreational vehicle, owners should first make sure it is properly de-winterized," says Mike Radigan, National Director of the Recreational Vehicle Institute. He referred to the process of readying an RV for hot weather use as "summerizing" and said the first step in summerizing is to remove signs of winter.

"Anti-freeze should be drained from the radiator and fresh water should be back-flushed through the cooling system," the RVI head suggests.

"Engine oil should be changed and summer oil used — a new oil filter should be installed. At the same time, it is a good idea to have the entire chassis lubricated.

"It shouldn't be necessary to change transmission fluid or differential oil but these should at least be checked, as should the power steering oil.

Check Spark Plugs

"Master cylinder brake fluid should also be checked."

Other steps toward "summerizing," according to Radigan, include cleaning and gapping (or replacing) spark plugs and points, recharging battery condition), checking and replacing if necessary such items as light bulbs, windshield wiper blades, muffler and tail pipe, springs and shock absorbers.

Radigan also suggested front end alignment checks, inspection of tires and a general underneath check for damage of any kind.

"As for the living quarters, the water storage tank should be thoroughly flushed out to remove any anti-freeze you may have used and to clean out the tank and water lines. Thorough flushing should continue for at least 15 minutes," the RVI director advises.

Look for Leaks

"This is a good time to make sure your pump is working properly and that there are no leaks anywhere in your water system," Radigan advised, suggesting similar treatment for the holding tank.

He emphasized that special attention should be paid to appliances including range, furnace, refrigerator, water heater, etc., and said that gas appliances should be carefully tested for correct pilot flames, in accordance with manufacturers' instructions.

Remember These

"An additional check of all windows, doors, ventilators, cabinets, and a little oil or graphite on noisy or stiff hinges... a final check of your interior lights, careful inspection of your hitch and safety chains, and you should be ready for a summer full of fun," Radigan concluded.

Adventuresome vacationers who want to take their camper trailers off the beaten path into scenic areas such as the above — with its magnificent view of the Grand Tetons — will do well to make sure their rigs are checked thoroughly before they consider off-road maneuvers.

Check List—for Those Who Will Tow Trailers

If you're planning to tow a trailer on a vacation trip this summer, you won't be alone. Trailer towing has increased 400% in the past ten years.

But you may be alone — all alone — if your car breaks down in the boondocks. Minimize this danger by properly servicing and equipping your car before hooking up that trailer.

Here are some things to be checked:

☐ BRAKES. Is the lining thick enough for a season of driving? Are components completely leak-free? Is pedal pressure solid without sponginess and is fluid up to the mark?

☐ TRANSMISSION. Is fluid level correct? Does the

☐ TIRES. Are treads wearing evenly? Any cracks or cuts in the tread or sidewalls? Adequate size for load? More than 1/16" of tread left?

☐ COOLING SYSTEM. If it has been a year or more since the last cooling system service, it's a good idea to have the system flushed out and replace the anti-freeze coolant. A 50% solution is recommended. This will assure a margin of safety in terms of boiling protection. Are hoses and fittings leak-free? No sponginess? Are fanbelts tight and in good condition? Are thermostat and water pump working properly?

☐ LIGHTS. All operative, including signal lights? Tail light lenses in good condi-

☐ WHEEL ALIGNMENT. Had it checked lately?

☐ ENGINE. Before an extended drive, the engine should be tuned. This is especially important under heavier load conditions when you need all the power you can get. Check the mileage since your last lube and oil and filter change, too.

How to Get Maximum Safe Miles Out of Tires, Told by Expert

By RODGER WARD

I've learned a lot about tires and what makes them last longer, perform better, thanks to my years as a race car driver and professional tire tester. Now that I have a performance safety tire on the market with my name on it I'm even more interested in seeing that motorists everywhere get the right facts on prolonging tire life.

The tricks to getting those extra miles of tire life aren't all connected solely with the condition or quality of the tires installed on a car however. Improved driving techniques will help extend tire life, as will taking care of your car's tires from time to time. I have a list of seven things to do that I know will prolong the life of your tires.

WATCH THAT INFLATION: Perhaps the greatest single determining factor in tire mileage is the air pressure at which tires are run. Check the owner's manual for your car — this is where the load range data will be useful — and follow the recommended air pressure for the tires you now use.

The Department of Transportation estimates that some 33 million tires a year are destroyed by under-inflation. This represents a loss of some $750 million to car owners. So remember, the few minutes a simple tire pressure check takes will save you money.

If you get a tire that is larger than normally called for on a given car, this is all right — as long as the wheel rim will accept the larger tire. Undersized tires could fail you in a stress situation. An undersized tire will not safely carry the weight of your car and its payload.

Another point about tire sizes. Be sure that the same tire sizes are in service on the same axle.

CUTS, BRUISES AND BUBBLES: Tires that have sustained actual damage are a serious safety hazard. A sidewall cut can let go when it's least expected, sometimes with disastrous results. So for safety's sake check your tires for cuts, bruises and bubbles.

This kind of checking must be done with the tire free of the road, so that it can be spun and checked on the entire circumference of the tread as well as the sidewall that faces into the car. If the tire rubber is abraded over a considerable distance, and the tire looks as though it may be damaged, there's only one thing to do. Have the tire removed and the inside checked for possible cord damage.

Bubbles that indicate rubber layer separation are cause for immediate replacement also. A young tire with a sidewall bubble should be taken back to the point of purchase for warranty consideration.

SUSPENSION ADJUSTMENTS CRITICAL TOO: Proper alignment of a car's front-end will help to get more miles out of a set of tires. And if you rotate tires regularly, accurate front-end alignment will improve the wear of all road tires.

Another point to remember is that shock absorbers also should be checked regularly for effectiveness and correct operation. If the shocks are weak they won't keep those tires on the road and frequent bouncing impact will take its toll in shortened tire life.

High-mileage cars should have their ball joints checked since wear of these components also can lead to rapid tire wear. Maintaining regular wheel balance is another key to longer tire life. The wheels should be balanced according to the car maker's suggestions, or when you feel any unusual minor vibration in the chassis or steering.

STARTS, STOPS, CORNERS AND CURBS: Even if you're in a hurry, you should take your time when pulling away from a stop. On the other side of the coin, you should never as a habit use the panic stop.

WATCH THE WEATHER: When the weather turns extremely cold, tire pressure drops approximately one pound for every 10°F drop in temperature. Conversely, tire pressure increases by one pound for every 10°F rise in temperature.
